'57 Farm Harvest Ties Records on Reduced Acreage

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers may wonder if there is any way to get away from overproduction of crops.
They were informed Tuesday by the Agriculture Department's final production report of 1957 that this year's harvest ties a record first set in 1948 and matched in 1956, although the acreage used was the smallest since 1919.
The big crop volume adds some new surpluses to complicate production programs for 1958.

The harvest would appear likely to sharpen demands for new farm programs—either ones that would tighten production controls or provide lower prices to open up larger markets.
The 1957 crop production reflected American agriculture's continuing growth efficiency—that is, more pounds, bushels, or bales are produced on a given acre of land. There are no indications that this efficiency has reached its peak.

PRODUCTION this year was featured by a bountiful output of feed grains and forage crops—essential raw materials for production of meats, dairy and poultry products. This harvest may well lead to a big increase next year in hogs, poultry and milk with price problems for producers.
The department's final report of the year estimated the 1957 corn crop at 3,402,832,000 bushels and the wheat crop at 947,102,000 bushels.

The corn figure is 70,297,000 bushels more than the November forecast 3,332,535,000. It compares also with last year's revised estimate of 3,455,283,000 bushels and with 3,120,484,000 for the 10-year (1946-55) average.

The wheat estimate is 19,778,000 bushels more than last month's forecast of 927,324,000 and compares with last year's total of 1,004,272,000 and 1,131,000,000 for the 10-year average.

The department listed these 1957 crop figures for Ohio (harvested acreage and average yield, and indicated important crops this year compared with last year's revised estimate):

Corn—3,343,000 acres harvested; 54 bushels per acre; 180,522,000 bushels produced this year, 215,700,000 last year.

Winter wheat — 1,495,000 acres harvested; 22 bushels per acre; 32,890,000 bushels this year and 39,676,000 last year.

Oats—1,112,000 acres harvested; 38 bushels per acre; 42,256,000 bushels this year and 47,343,000 last year.

Soybeans for beans — 1,421,000 acres harvested; 23 bushels per acre; 32,683,000 bushels this year and 31,224,000 last year.

Flood of Mail Recedes after Setting Record

WCH Post Office Keeps Abreast of 'Late' Business

After hitting an all-time record Monday, the flood of Christmas mail in the Washington C. H. Post Office was starting to recede today.

In the biggest day in the history of the office, a total of 60,810 letters and 1,210 packages were handled by the augmented staff of clerks and carriers.

The biggest previous day the post office here was Dec. 17 last year when the total hit 60,190 letters and 684 packages.

THE RUSH started a little later this year than last, principally because of the snow and cold snap early last week. On Monday, the volume of letters was more than 8,000 behind that of last year on the same date, but the deluge that poured in during the day wiped out that deficit and sent the total far enough ahead to convince post office officials a new season record would be set this year.

Comparative figures on letters mailed this year and last show how this year's mailings increased to a flood Monday after getting off to a slow start:

Dec. 12	— 21,800 and 24,120
Dec. 13	— 29,500 and 33,440
Dec. 14	— 30,300 and 36,820
Dec. 15	— 12,900 and 40,070
Dec. 16	— 60,810 and 20,050
Dec. 17	— 50,910 and 60,190
Total	— 155,310 and 154,500

DAY-BY-DAY totals on packages mailed this year and last are:

Dec. 12	— 192 and 365
Dec. 13	— 192 and 279
Dec. 14	— 247 and 331
Dec. 15	— 59 and 291
Dec. 16	— 574 and 648

There was a slump in the totals for Dec. 15 this year, because this was Sunday. Although the post office was open, mailing was deferred by many until Monday.

Postmaster Clark Wickenbarger was generous in his praise of the regular staff and the extra clerks as he said "we are cleaning up everything every day. . . all the (Please turn to page two)

Flight of Atlas Said 600 Miles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Air Force Atlas missile flew more than 600 miles over the Atlantic on its first long-distance test flight Tuesday and attained an altitude of 80 miles or more, informed sources said today at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Although the missile was designed to fly 5,000 miles and reach an altitude of 600 miles, it reportedly was set for the test flight to go only about 400 miles.

The missile flew faster, higher and farther than planned.

Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the Air Force Missile Test Center here, reported after the flight that nothing could be said of the mission beyond the official Defense Department release.

The release said the missile flew a prescribed course over a "limited range test of several hundred miles" and landed in a pre-selected impact area.

Yates said the missile was not recovered and no attempt would be made to recover it.

He declined to say when the next Atlas test flight would be conducted.

MEANWHILE, in Washington, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) exhorted Americans to "spend our days and nights" in an effort to pull ahead of Russia in missiles and space science.

Johnson said an inquiry into the U. S. space weapons program indicates "we now face a situation which in some respects is comparable to Pearl Harbor."

The Texas senator, who also is Senate Democratic leader, heads the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which Tuesday night recessed its hearings until Jan. 6.

"It is up to all Americans to work as though there will never be a tomorrow and everything must be done tonight," he said. "We have a long way to go and we must start at the earliest possible moment."

Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, senior Republican on the subcommittee, said he thinks the missile and satellite programs have been accelerated by the group's investigation.

"We have made progress but there is a lot of work to be done," he said in a separate interview. "We have laid the facts before the public and the people know where we stand. Now we must get on from here."

The subcommittee heard testimony Tuesday night that development of one type of 1,500-mile-range missile had been delayed by a cutback in funds last August.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Air Force missile chief, testified that an economy order of last August, which was not rescinded until November, slowed down work on the Thor.

SCHRIEVER told the subcommittee "you could get to the moon by 1959" with ballistic missile hardware now being produced in this country. He said the Atlas, Thor, Jupiter and Polaris missiles "all make perfect boosters" for a moon satellite.

The Atlas is an intercontinental ballistic missile designed to travel up to 5,000 miles. The Polaris is a 1,500-mile-range missile being developed by the Navy.

Odd Things Happen To Postal Service At Christmastime

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The madhouse that is a U.S. post office at Christmas time hasn't been helped much by various patrons in this area.

Postal officials reported dealing with these cases in recent days:

A man entered the postoffice with a fistful of cards in one hand and cancelled checks in the other. He mailed the checks, walked out with the cards.

A woman insisted that "fragile" be stamped all over her package, not because it was china but because, "It's a pair of socks. I just wanted them to be in good shape when daddy got them for Christmas."

A man notified the postoffice that his wife had mailed his weekly pay check along with the Christmas cards and wailed, "What do I do now?"

NATO OKs Missile Bases; U.S. To Seek Peace Talks

Ike's Health Is Chief Topic

Reporters at NATO Stress His Condition

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower today laughingly refused to keep on his overcoat in President Rene Coty's cold hallway as he arrived for lunch on his third busy day in Paris.

"No, no," warned Coty as Ike began peeling off his coat. "Don't take your coat off here. It's cold."

"Thank you, Mr. President," replied Eisenhower, "but I'm all right."

Off came the coat.
An ambulance stood by the building.

Officials said an ambulance was usually at the palace for big dinners and receptions, but seldom for such small luncheons as today's.

Eisenhower's personal Physician, Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, preceded the President to the palace as he did Tuesday night.

Ever since Eisenhower arrived his health has rivaled the momentous world problems for newsmen's attention.

MANY OF THE correspondents covering the summit meetings are devoting most or almost all their time to reporting how the President is getting along.

Eisenhower's health is the subject of rumors of all kinds.

To all inquiries, both Snyder and press secretary James C. Hagerty have an almost never-varying reply: The President is "fine" or "very fine."

The President's every appearance and move are studied conscientiously by reporters.

In some pictures the President looks well, in others not. His features are highly mobile, and a tired-out look one second gives way in the next moment to a hearty, healthy smile.

Ike Tells His Press Aide to 'Simmer Down'

LONDON (AP)—Several British newspapers today gave a loud horse laugh to U. S. presidential press secretary James Hagerty, the former newspaperman who couldn't take a columnist's ribbing about his news conferences.

The columnist was humorist Art Buchwald, whose paper, the New York Herald Tribune, was the first major paper to endorse Eisenhower for the presidency in 1952 and which has never wavered in its devotion. Hagerty once worked for the New York Times.

Buchwald, in a column published in the Herald Tribune and its Paris edition Tuesday, recounted an imaginary press conference with presidential spokesman "Jim" spoofing many of the questions asked — and answers received — at such inquiries into the minutiae of the President's daily life.

Hagerty called a special press conference to describe the column as "unadulterated rot" and to assert that "at no time did the reports in the New York Herald Tribune even remotely resemble what I ever said at a public briefing."

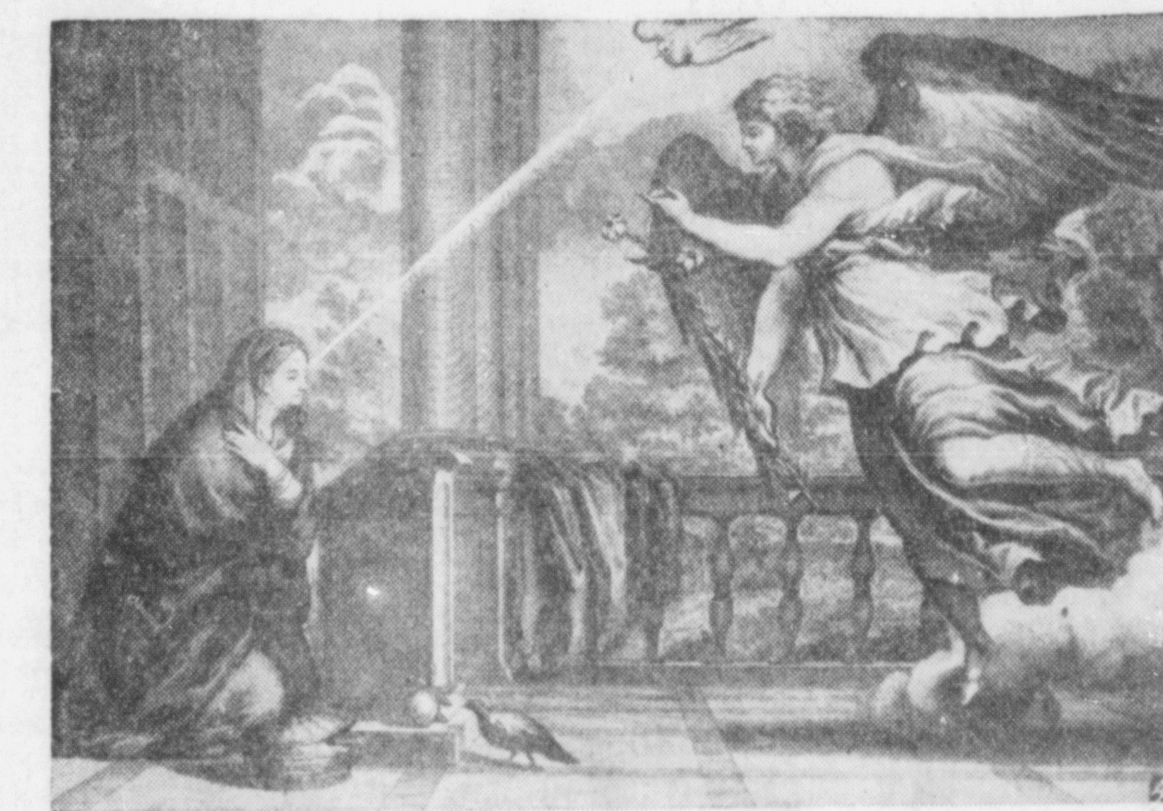

"This incredible scene," the London Daily Express told its British readers, "resulted in the biggest shout of laughter since the NATO conference opened."

The Legacy of Luke

Paul's Imprisonment Gave Luke Chance To Get the 'Untold Story'

TITIAN, the great master of the Italian Renaissance, drew this interpretation of the Annunciation, a scene which Luke alone among the four evangelists recorded in his gospel. The learned Greek physician preserved for all time this and many other of the classic events connected with the Nativity by careful and painstaking research.

Editor's Note: The joyous Christmas story known today the world over might have been lost forever had it not been for one man. His name was Luke. He alone among the gospel writers recorded the dramatic and inspiring scenes of the Annunciation, the trip to Bethlehem, the manger, the shepherds. This is the first in a series of six articles about Luke and his legacy to the hundreds of millions who celebrate the birth of Christ. The stories are based on history, ancient church traditions, Scripture and the implications of these sources.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The story had not been told.

It lay hidden out there somewhere in the autumn-tinted hills of Galilee and Judea where Jesus had grown up, lived, taught and died, but no one had ever set down just how it all began.

Luke was determined to find out. The task would not be easy. Jesus had been crucified nearly 30 years before. All kinds of unreliable tales about him, fabrications and fancies, were in circulation. Luke wanted the truth.

An urbane, lettered Greek physician of about 40, Loukas, familiarly called Luke, was a convert from paganism to "the way" of Christ. He had become an aide and traveling companion of the missionary, Paul.

All during their journeys of teaching, organizing congregations and treating the sick, in Troas, Philippi, Thessalonica, Athens, Corinth and elsewhere, Luke felt the need for a full account of his new faith.

So far, intriguing questions about its origin remained unanswered.

Luke, by instinct, by his characteristic Greek curiosity for detail, by his historical bent, by his training in the scientific method of observation, experiment and verification, insisted on the particulars.

What were the circumstances surrounding the birth of the Lord Jesus? Had his mother been aware of anything extraordinary? What were her feelings? Where, exactly, did it happen? Who was in attendance? How had God become man? Were there any unusual signs?

Luke gazed out at the sunlit harbor of Caesarea, at the array of Roman triremes, Phoenician sailing ships and other vessels rocking quietly in the still, dark waters.

He would have to seek out the information himself.

Others, who had greater opportunity, had not done so. Their notes, recollections and journals covered many events and part of the background—but not all of it.

Significant gaps remained—about the beginnings, the roots,

GOP Committee Endorses Judge Case For Second District Court of Appeals

Common Pleas Judge John P. Case has received the endorsement of the Fayette County Republican Central Committee in his announced candidacy for the Second District Court of Appeals.

Eleven of the 13 members of the committee were present at a called meeting held Tuesday night in the sheriff's office at the Courthouse. Approval of Judge Case was unanimous.

At the same time, the committee unanimously endorsed Mrs. Donna Wagner, wife of County Engineer Charles Wagner, as Republican committee woman of the Sixth Congressional District to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of Mrs. Madeline Hoyt, Chillicothe. County chairman of the Sixth District will select a committee woman at a meeting to be held in Washington C. H. early in January.

Chillicothe Newspaper Ups Price to 10 Cents

CHILLICOTHE (AP)—The Chillicothe Gazette, oldest daily newspaper west of the Alleghenies, has raised its single-copy price from seven to 10 cents. It publishes no Sunday paper.

The weekly home-delivered rate advanced from 35 to 45 cents.

The Gazette said the price increase was made necessary by "steadily mounting costs of production and newsprint."

JUDGE CASE, who is serving a six-year term on the Common Pleas bench to which he was elected in 1956, may, under state law, seek election to the higher court without resigning his present position.

His candidacy is subject to the Republican primary in May when one candidate for the appellate post will be nominated.

The court district includes Fayette, Champaign, Clark, Darke, Greene, Madison, Miami, Montgomery, Preble and Shelby counties.

The Sixth Congressional District is composed of Fayette, Pickaway, Ross, Highland, Pike, Clermont, Brown, Adams and Scioto counties. Sheriff Orland Hays, Central Committee chairman, presided over the meeting. Roy Thompson is secretary.

Last Hospital Addition Bond Paid Off by County Wednesday

The last bond of the bonds issued by Fayette County for the construction of the $125,000 west wing addition to Memorial Hospital five years ago was paid off Wednesday, County Auditor Harry Allen said.

The final payment amounted to $25,187.50—$25,000 for the bond and $187.50 in interest.

These bonds, which required a half-mill tax levy, are now removed from the county's obligations.

The original bond issue for building the hospital here was for $360,000. This was supplemented by a federal grant of $1 for each $2 the county put up.

To meet the increasing costs, due to rising prices at the time the hospital was constructed, it was necessary to put on a campaign for contributions from the general public to meet the lowest bid. The amount thus collected was approximately $65,000. The federal government also helped in this on the basis of an additional grant of $1 for each $2 raised by contributions.

The original $360,000 bond issue covering a 20-year period, carried a 3/4 of a mill tax levy. This has now been reduced to .25 of a mill, by reason of regular payments made. This is now the only tax the property owners are paying on the hospital.

Both the proposed .65 of a mill operating levy and the bond issue for approximately $780,000, presented to the voters of the county at the last November election for new construction and alterations in the building, were turned down.

Allies Ask New Effort At Arms Pact

PARIS (AP)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance, defying Russian threats and warnings, agreed today to base U. S.-made nuclear missiles in Europe. The United States thus won its major purpose at the Allied summit conference.

The price paid by the United States was an agreement to sound out the Russians on a cold war truce, including a new effort at disarmament.

The allies gave approval Tuesday to a guarded exploration of the latest Soviet bids for an East-West summit conference.

Many European leaders feel that until they have publicly proved that they have exhausted all possible avenues toward an East-West settlement opened up by the Kremlin, they cannot convince their people of the need to station U. S. missiles on their soil.

Having been assured of the softening of the U. S. attitude by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen, and Prime Minister Hans Christian Hansen of Denmark went along with the basic military decision today.

THE DECISION was subject to final approval by the heads of government, who were to receive a report from their foreign and defense ministers in a later session.

The ministerial meeting opened the third day of the NATO summit talks.

Reliable reports from the meeting of foreign and defense ministers this morning indicated that while the alliance as a whole would endorse the principle of nuclear armament, it would be left up to the individual countries to accept the weapons for bases on their territory.

Britain is expected to get the first of the 1,500-mile rockets by the end of 1958. First supplies for continental Europe will come along in the following six months according to U.S. estimates.

The ministerial meeting unanimously approved a Norwegian proposal that the conference committee should make clear that NATO is deciding to arm with missiles only because the Soviet Union is already brandishing the rocket weapon.

Norwegian Prime Minister Gerhardsen and his foreign minister, Halvard Lange, said the summit meeting communiqué should contain wording setting forth clearly the basic reason that "they are doing it, therefore we are forced to do it."

GERMAN DEFENSE Minister Franz Josef Strauss said the final NATO communiqué will not mention which countries will have missile bases.

Countries to receive the new weapons will be recommended by Gen. Lauris Norstad, the NATO supreme commander. The United States and the countries concerned will then negotiate the matter.

The informant who reported the missiles agreement said Denmark and Norway, the chief objectors earlier to going ahead with the nuclear plans, now had accepted the principle that the "NATO area" should be armed with missiles.

So far only Britain, the Netherlands and Turkey have said they would be willing to take missiles on their territory.

Ike Tells His Press Aide to 'Simmer Down'

LONDON (AP)—Several British newspapers today gave a loud horse laugh to U. S. presidential press secretary James Hagerty, the former newspaperman who couldn't take a columnist's ribbing about his news conferences.

The columnist was humorist Art Buchwald, whose paper, the New York Herald Tribune, was the first major paper to endorse Eisenhower for the presidency in 1952 and which has never wavered in its devotion. Hagerty once worked for the New York Times.

Buchwald, in a column published in the Herald Tribune and its Paris edition Tuesday, recounted an imaginary press conference with presidential spokesman "Jim" spoofing many of the questions asked — and answers received — at such inquiries into the minutiae of the President's daily life.

Hagerty called a special press conference to describe the column as "unadulterated rot" and to assert that "at no time did the reports in the New York Herald Tribune even remotely resemble what I ever said at a public briefing."

"This incredible scene," the London Daily Express told its British readers, "resulted in the biggest shout of laughter since the NATO conference opened."

A man entered the postoffice with a fistful of cards in one hand and cancelled checks in the other. He mailed the checks, walked out with the cards. A woman insisted that "fragile" be stamped all over her package, not because it was china but because, "It's a pair of socks. I just wanted them to be in good shape when daddy got them for Christmas."

A man notified the postoffice that his wife had mailed his weekly pay check along with the Christmas cards and wailed, "What do I do now?"

The Legacy of Luke

Paul's Imprisonment Gave Luke Chance To Get the 'Untold Story'

TI TIAN, the great master of the Italian Renaissance, drew this interpretation of the Annunciation, a scene which Luke alone among the four evangelists recorded in his gospel. The learned Greek physician preserved for all time this and many other of the classic events connected with the Nativity by careful and painstaking research.

Editor's Note: The joyous Christmas story known today the world over might have been lost forever had it not been for one man. His name was Luke. He alone among the gospel writers recorded the dramatic and inspiring scenes of the Annunciation, the trip to Bethlehem, the manger, the shepherds. This is the first in a series of six articles about Luke and his legacy to the hundreds of millions who celebrate the birth of Christ. The stories are based on history, ancient church traditions, Scripture and the implications of these sources.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer.

The story had not been told. It lay hidden out there somewhere in the autumn-tinted hills of Galilee and Judea where Jesus had grown up, lived, taught and died, but no one had ever set down just how it all began.

Luke was determined to find out. The task would not be easy. Jesus had been crucified nearly 30 years before. All kinds of unreliable tales about him, fabrications and fancies, were in circulation. Luke wanted the truth.

An urbane, lettered Greek physician of about 40, Loukas, familiarly called Luke, was a convert from paganism to "the way" of Christ. He had become an aide and traveling companion of the missionary, Paul.

All during their journeys of teaching, organizing congregations and treating the sick, in Troas, Philippi, Thessalonica, Athens, Corinth and elsewhere, Luke felt the need for a full account of his new faith.

So far, intriguing questions about its origin remained unanswered.

Luke, by instinct, by his characteristic Greek curiosity for detail, by his historical bent, by his training in the scientific method of observation, experiment and verification, insisted on the particulars.

What were the circumstances surrounding the birth of the Lord Jesus? Had his mother been aware of anything extraordinary? What were her feelings? Where, exactly, did it happen? Who was in attendance? How had God become man? Were there any unusual signs?

Luke gazed out at the sunlit harbor of Caesarea, at the array of Roman triremes, Phoenician sailing ships and other vessels rocking quietly in the still, dark waters.

He would have to seek out the information himself.

Others, who had greater opportunity, had not done so. Their notes, recollections and journals covered many events and part of the background—but not all of it.

Allies Ask New Effort At Arms Pact

PARIS (AP)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance, defying Russian threats and warnings, agreed today to base U. S.-made nuclear missiles in Europe. The United States thus won its major purpose at the Allied summit conference.

The price paid by the United States was an agreement to sound out the Russians on a cold war truce, including a new effort at disarmament.

The allies gave approval Tuesday to a guarded exploration of the latest Soviet bids for an East-West summit conference.

Many European leaders feel that until they have publicly proved that they have exhausted all possible avenues toward an East-West settlement opened up by the Kremlin, they cannot convince their people of the need to station U. S. missiles on their soil.

Having been assured of the softening of the U. S. attitude by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen, and Prime Minister Hans Christian Hansen of Denmark went along with the basic military decision today.

THE DECISION was subject to final approval by the heads of government, who were to receive a report from their foreign and defense ministers in a later session.

The ministerial meeting opened the third day of the NATO summit talks.

Reliable reports from the meeting of foreign and defense ministers this morning indicated that while the alliance as a whole would endorse the principle of nuclear armament, it would be left up to the individual countries to accept the weapons for bases on their territory.

Britain is expected to get the first of the 1,500-mile rockets by the end of 1958. First supplies for continental Europe will come along in the following six months according to U. S. estimates.

The ministerial meeting unanimously approved a Norwegian proposal that the conference committee should make clear that NATO is deciding to arm with missiles only because the Soviet Union is already brandishing the rocket weapon.

Norwegian Prime Minister Gerhardsen and his foreign minister, Halvard Lange, said the summit meeting communiqué should contain wording setting forth clearly the basic reason that "they are doing it, therefore we are forced to do it."

GERMAN DEFENSE Minister Franz Josef Strauss said the final NATO communiqué will not mention which countries will have missile bases.

Countries to receive the new weapons will be recommended by Gen. Lauris Norstad, the NATO supreme commander. The United States and the countries concerned will then negotiate the matter.

The informant who reported the missiles agreement said Denmark and Norway, the chief objectors earlier to going ahead with the nuclear plans, now had accepted the principle that the "NATO area" should be armed with missiles.

So far only Britain, the Netherlands and Turkey have said they would be willing to take missiles on their territory.

GOP Committee Endorses Judge Case For Second District Court of Appeals

Common Pleas Judge John P. Case has received the endorsement of the Fayette County Republican Central Committee in his announced candidacy for the Second District Court of Appeals.

Eleven of the 13 members of the committee were present at a called meeting held Tuesday night in the sheriff's office at the Courthouse. Approval of Judge Case was unanimous.

At the same time, the committee unanimously endorsed Mrs. Donna Wagner, wife of County Engineer Charles Wagner, as Republican committee woman of the Sixth Congressional District to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of Mrs. Madeline Hoyt, Chillicothe. County chairmen of the Sixth District will select a committee woman at a meeting to be held in Washington C. H. early in January.

Chillicothe Newspaper Ups Price to 10 Cents

CHILICOTHE (AP)—The Chillicothe Gazette, oldest daily newspaper west of the Alleghenies, has raised its single-copy price from seven to 10 cents. It publishes no Sunday paper.

The weekly home-delivered rate advanced from 35 to 45 cents.

The Gazette said the price increase was made necessary by "steadily mounting costs of production and newsprint."

JUDGE CASE, who is serving a six-year term on the Common Pleas bench to which he was elected in 1956, may, under state law, seek election to the higher court without resigning his present position.

His candidacy is subject to the Republican primary in May when one candidate for the appellate post will be nominated.

The court district includes Fayette, ette, Champaign, Clark, Darke, Greene, Madison, Miami, Montgomery, Preble and Shelby counties.

The Sixth Congressional District is composed of Fayette, Pickaway, Ross, Highland, Pike, Clermont, Brown, Adams and Scioto counties.

Sheriff Orland Hays, Central Committee chairman, presided over the meeting. Roy Thompson is secretary.

Last Hospital Addition Bond Paid Off by County Wednesday

The last bond of the bonds issued by Fayette County for the construction of the $125,000 west wing addition to Memorial Hospital five years ago was paid off Wednesday, County Auditor Harry Allen said.

The final payment amounted to $25,187.50—$25,000 for the bond and $187.50 in interest.

These bonds, which required a half-mill tax levy, are now removed from the county's obligations.

The original bond issue for building the hospital here was for $360,000. This was supplemented by a federal grant of $1 for each $2 the county put up.

To meet the increasing costs, due to rising prices at the time the hospital was constructed, it was necessary to put on a campaign for contributions from the general public to meet the lowest bid. The amount thus collected was approximately $65,000. The federal government also helped in this on the basis of an additional grant of $1 for each $2 raised by contributions.

The original $360,000 bond issue covering a 20-year period, carried a .7 of a mill tax levy. This has now been reduced to .25 of a mill, by reason of regular payments made. This is now the only tax the property owners are paying on the hospital.

Both the proposed .65 of a mill operating levy and the bond issue for approximately $780,000, presented to the voters of the county at the last November election for new construction and alterations in the building, were turned down.

Only One Hurt In 7 Accidents

One Driver Cited After Collision

One injury and one arrest resulted from an epidemic of seven auto accidents in the city and county Tuesday and Wednesday. Several of them were related to the rainy weather.

Treated in the Memorial Hospital emergency room for a sprained ankle was Mrs. Frank Berry, 35, of Flakes Ford Rd. She was released after treatment.

Mrs. Berry was a passenger in a car driven by her husband which slid off a curve on Creek Rd. about three miles south of Washington C. H. around 7 a. m. Wednesday.

The car hit a telephone pole and the left side was caved in. Berry told Sheriff Hays he lost control of the auto on the rain - slick pavement.

Fined $10 and costs in Municipal Court after he pleaded guilty to a charge of passing at an intersection was Charles Mayabb, 47, Dayton. He pleaded guilty.

Mayabb was arrested by city police after he hit the side of a light truck driven by Henry C. Frederick, 76, of 721 Campbell St., on Dayton Ave. about 9:35 a. m. Wednesday.

Frederick was attempting to turn onto Jupiter St. when Mayabb tried to pass and hit the side of the truck. The front end of his car was wrecked, but there was only moderate damage to the truck.

TED JOSEPH KLINE, 17, of the CCC Highway, west, was the driver of a car involved in a collision with a Baltimore & Ohio freight engine about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday on W. Court St.

Kline said he did not see the train in the dark, rainy weather and that he did not notice a flagman in front of the track. Police said he passed three cars which had stopped at the crossing. The accident is still under investigation. He has not been charged.

Damage to his car was confined to the left front fender, bumper and the hood.

Dusk and the rain were listed as the causes of an accident on the CCC Highway 2 1/2 miles west about 5:10 p. m. Tuesday. Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Mickle said a westbound car driven by Rosalie Deakyn e, 35, of 224 Draper St., was forced off the road by a car driven by O. O. Bush, Route 3, Washington C. H.

Bush was coming out of a gas station. He said he had waited for four or five cars to pass, but that he didn't see the Deakyn e car because its headlights were not on.

Damage was slight. Robert Loughd Niederhel m a n, 35, Cincinnati, told police he had stopped at the W. Court St., Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks about 6:50 p. m. Tuesday when his auto was hit in the rear by a car driven by Edwin C. McCoy, 34, Route 70, north.

McCoy said he rounded a corner from Hinde St. and did not see the other car in the darkness and rain. Elza May Jr., 27, Waverly, said a tire blew on his 1948 sedan about 5 1/2 miles south on Route 35, causing him to skid off the road and wreck the car. The mishap occurred about 2:30 a. m. Wednesday. Sheriff Hays said.

A fender was the only casualty when a pickup truck driven by Andrew Ackley, 48, of 1117 Gregg St., backed out of a W. Market St. parking place and collided with a westbound auto operated by Eddie Jones, 67, of 722 E. Temple St. Jones' fender was dented.

"Yes," he answered. "I thought it was the garbage. I threw it into the garbage can."

Frenchman Sobs at His Murder Trial

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Maurice Chavigny, accused of slaying a retired general, 64, and the general's wife, 61, a former Zanesville, Ohio, woman, broke down and sobbed in court Tuesday.

Chavigny, 44, a good looking Frenchman, is charged with first degree murder in the shooting of Brig. Gen. Wilbur R. McReynolds and Mrs. McReynolds at their fashionable St. Petersburg home April 3.

Although he was their chauffeur he also was on very friendly terms with both of them.

The general's sister, Miss Lavonne McReynolds, testified to visits the three of them made to her home in Fort Lauderdale. She said Mrs. McReynolds and Chavigny also visited there separately.

She was asked what Mrs. McReynolds' attitude toward Chavigny was during early visits.

"I think she treated him rather like a son," Miss McReynolds told the jury. "She looked after his wants and even told him what clothes to wear."

Lorin S. Meredith, who lives across the street from the McReynolds home, testified he heard shouting from that house the night of April 3.

He testified that Chavigny said: "You have been playing with me, my darling. Now it is finished—finished." Then came 8 shots.

Stock Mart Surge Labeled As Technical

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market bounded back early this afternoon after two drab sessions.

Steels, motors and aircrafts led what Wall Streeters called a technical recovery from over-selling.

The leaders were up from fractions to a point generally, with some key stocks doing better.

The ticker tape was late for three minutes in the opening pile-up of transactions as many buyers picked up blue chip issues near their lows of the year.

There was no particular news to help the advance.

Rails, some chemicals, oils, and electrical manufacturers joined the rise.

Chrysler was up more than a point and Union Carbide around two.

Gains of about a point were made by Douglas Aircraft, General Dynamics, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Allied Chemical, Illinois Central and Texas Co.

Fractional gains were made by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Lukens.

General Motors, Goodyear, Boeing, United Aircraft, Gulf Oil and Southern Railway made small gains.

U. S. government bonds eased slightly.

Only One Hurt In 7 Accidents

One Driver Cited After Collision

One injury and one arrest resulted from an epidemic of seven auto accidents in the city and county Tuesday and Wednesday. Several of them were related to the rainy weather.

Treated in the Memorial Hospital emergency room for a sprained ankle was Mrs. Frank Berry, 35, of Flakes Ford Rd. She was released after treatment.

Mrs. Berry was a passenger in a car driven by her husband which slid off a curve on Creek Rd. about three miles south of Washington C. H. around 7 a. m. Wednesday.

The car hit a telephone pole and the left side was caved in. Berry told Sheriff Hays he lost control of the auto on the rain - slick pavement.

Fined $10 and costs in Municipal Court after he pleaded guilty to a charge of passing at an intersection was Charles Mayabb, 47, Dayton. He pleaded guilty.

Mayabb was arrested by city police after he hit the side of a light truck driven by Henry C. Frederick, 76, of 721 Campbell St., on Dayton Ave. about 9:35 a. m. Wednesday.

Frederick was attempting to turn onto Jupiter St. when Mayabb tried to pass and hit the side of the truck. The front end of his car was wrecked, but there was only moderate damage to the truck.

TED JOSEPH KLINE, 17, of the CCC Highway, west, was the driver of a car involved in a collision with a Baltimore & Ohio freight engine about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday on W. Court St.

Kline said he did not see the train in the dark, rainy weather and that he did not notice a flagman in front of the track. Police said he passed three cars which had stopped at the crossing. The accident is still under investigation. He has not been charged.

Damage to his car was confined to the left front fender, bumper and the hood.

Dusk and the rain were listed as the causes of an accident on the CCC Highway 2 1/2 miles west about 5:10 p. m. Tuesday. Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Mickle said a westbound car driven by Rosalie Deakyn, 35, of 224 Draper St., was forced off the road by a car driven by O. O. Bush, Route 3, Washington C. H.

Bush was coming out of a gas station. He said he had waited for four or five cars to pass, but that he didn't see the Deakyn car because its headlights were not on.

Damage was slight. Robert Loughd Niederhelman, 35, Cincinnati, told police he had stopped at the W. Court St., Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks about 6:50 p. m. Tuesday when his auto was hit in the rear by a car driven by Edwin C. McCoy, 34, Route 70, north.

McCoy said he rounded a corner from Hinde St. and did not see the other car in the darkness and rain.

Elza May Jr., 27, Waverly, said a tire blew on his 1948 sedan about 5 1/2 miles south on Route 35, causing him to skid off the road and wreck the car. The mishap occurred about 2:30 a. m. Wednesday, Sheriff Hays said.

A fender was the only casualty when a pickup truck driven by Andrew Ackley, 48, of 1117 Gregg St., backed out of a W. Market St. parking place and collided with a westbound auto operated by Eddie Jones, 67, of 722 E. Temple St. Jones' fender was dented.

Garage Full of Trees But She Buys Elsewhere

COLUMBUS (AP)—Mrs. John Graf turned on the light in her garage Tuesday night and found 15 Christmas trees. Having "no idea how they got there," she turned them over the police.

Then she went out and bought a tree for her house.

He 'Mail' 'em OK; Delivery Is Red Hot

CLEVELAND (AP)—"You mailed them, didn't you, Joe?" Mrs. Joseph Larysz asked her husband.

"No, you mailed them," said Joseph.

"Didn't you take that sack I put by the sink?" asked Mrs. Larysz.

"Yes," he answered. "I thought it was the garbage. I threw it into the garbage can."

Mrs. Larysz made a frantic call to the disposal plant but was informed that the garbage—including the Larysz' 300 Christmas cards and $50 in cash gifts—had been burned shortly before.

Ike-Dulles Report On NATO Talked

PARIS (AP)—White House press secretary James Hagerty said today President Eisenhower and make a joint television and radio Secretary of State Dulles may 16D make a joint television and radio report on the NATO conference after they return to Washington.

Hagerty said that the idea still is being considered. He said if there is a report, it will not be before early next week.

The President plans to leave by plane for Washington Thursday, Hagerty announced, and expects to arrive in the capital about 6:30 a. m. (EST) Friday. The presidential plane, the Columbine III, probably will make a refueling stop at the U. S. Air Force base at Keflavik, Iceland.

Soviet Pilot Predicts Another Speed Mark

LONDON (AP)—A Soviet test pilot who recently flew a new Russian jet fighter faster than 1,242.8 miles an hour predicted Tuesday that even faster speeds will be recorded soon.

Lt. Col. Nikolai Korovushkin said in an interview he did not consider the recent flight a record, Moscow radio said, although it was faster than the official world record of 1,207.6 miles an hour set by U. S. Air Force Maj. Adrian Drew in a RF100 Voodoo fighter-bomber.

Frenchman Sobs at His Murder Trial

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Maurice Chavigny, accused of slaying a retired general, 64, and the general's wife, 61, a former Zanesville, Ohio, woman, broke down and sobbed in court Tuesday.

Chavigny, 44, a good looking Frenchman, is charged with first degree murder in the shooting of Brig. Gen. Wilbur R. McReynolds and Mrs. McReynolds at their fashionable St. Petersburg home April 3.

Although he was their chauffeur he also was on very friendly terms with both of them.

The general's sister, Miss Lavonne McReynolds, testified to visit the three of them made to her home in Fort Lauderdale. She said Mrs. McReynolds and Chavigny also visited there separately.

She was asked what Mrs. McReynolds' attitude toward Chavigny was during early visits.

"I think she treated him rather like a son," Miss McReynolds told the jury. "She looked after his wants and even told him what clothes to wear."

Lorin S. Meredith, who lives across the street from the McReynolds home, testified he heard shouting from that house the night of April 3.

He testified that Chavigny said: "You have been playing with me, my darling. Now it is finished—finished." Then came 8 shots.

Holiday Mail

mail is going out right on schedule.

The mail bags that were placed in the lobby, he said, have been "a big help" not only to post office workers but also to the public. He also said the distribution of the mail has been speeded by the growing number of people who separate their local and out-of-town mail.

The postmaster predicted that the rush of mail would taper off from now on at the rate of about 10,000 a day.

Boy's Vanguard Flops Like Navy's

DETROIT (AP)—Like the Navy's Vanguard missile, 14-year-old Larry Larson's "tiny Vanguard" failed to take off when he attempted to launch it.

His missile was about three inches long and three fourths of an inch in diameter. It was powered by a carbon dioxide cartridge. Kneeling in an alley, Larry touched a match to it. Boom! Back to the drawing boards.

The investigating committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) announced it would explore

Stock Mart Surge Labeled As Technical

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market bounded back early this afternoon after two drab sessions.

Steels, motors and aircrafts led what Wall Streeters called a technical recovery from over-selling.

The leaders were up from fractions to a point generally, with some key stocks doing better.

The ticker tape was late for three minutes in the opening pile-up of transactions as many buyers picked up blue chip issues near their lows of the year.

There was no particular news to help the advance.

Rails, some chemicals, oils, and electrical manufacturers joined the rise.

Chrysler was up more than a point and Union Carbide around two.

Gains of about a point were made by Douglas Aircraft, General Dynamics, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Allied Chemical, Illinois Central and Texas Co.

Fractional gains were made by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Lukens.

General Motors, Goodyear, Boeing, United Aircraft, Gulf Oil and Southern Railway made small gains.

U. S. government bonds eased slightly.

Wrong Turn Leads To Rescue Effort

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP)—A drugstore delivery boy made a wrong turn and saved a 2 1/2-year old girl from drowning.

The girl, Patricia Bunnell, fell into a water-filled excavation ditch while playing with her brother and sister.

Shouts of the children attracted the attention of Edward C. Citternick, 20, as he approached in his truck. He pulled her out.

Citternick said he meant to turn down another street.

Negro County To Be Dissolved

Alabama Whites Fear Domination by Blacks

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama voters have authorized the Legislature to abolish Macon County rather than see it come under Negro domination.

The decision came in Tuesday's election on 25 proposed amendments to the state constitution.

It reflects the Deep South's fear that the civil rights bill enacted by the last Congress to enforce voting rights may lead to Negro political control of local governments. Macon County's whites are outnumbered 7-1.

The county may now be abolished by legislative act and its territory added to adjoining counties where whites are in the majority.

Returns from 1,690 of the state's 2,700 boxes gave 51,478 for the Macon amendment to 36,820 against.

Macon's County seat, Tuskegee, is the home of Tuskegee Institute, famous Negro college. The Legislature this year narrowed Tuskegee's city limits to exclude most Negro voters. The town's white-owned businesses then were boycotted by Negro residents.

THE MACON amendment came from its own state senator, Sam Englehardt, who is executive secretary of the Alabama Assn. of Citizens Councils, a segregationist organization.

The only organized opposition against the amendment was a last-minute appeal by the Tuskegee Civic Assn., a Negro organization. It said the proposal was a device to maintain "an undemocratic system of social relationships, a system which cannot be justified morally or politically."

Englehardt said the Negro majority in his county, with the help of the new federal civil rights law, might be able to elect Negroes to county office.

New Englander Named VA Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sumner G. Whittier, a former lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, has been appointed veterans administrator.

The 46-year-old Republican has been head of the Veterans Administration's Insurance Division for less than a year. His new job pays $21,000 a year. Whittier succeeds Harvey V. Higley, who resigned Nov. 13 to return to private life in Marinette, Wis.

President Eisenhower gave Whittier a recess appointment, subject to Senate confirmation.

First U. S. Missileman Class Is Graduated

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (AP) — The first class of U.S. "missile air-men," trained to fire intercontinental guided missiles, has been graduated.

Of the 105 class members, most are officers and men who will be assigned to the Strategic Air Command's first operational long-range missile squadron.

Class members were trained at Northrop Aircraft, Inc., manufacturer of the 5,000-mile-range Snark guided missile.

Atlas ICBM Passes First Test

ROARING FROM ITS LAUNCHING pad in Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Atlas intercontinental missile heads for a target out in the Atlantic in its first successful firing. The 5,500-mile range weapon is designed to deliver a nuclear warhead to any point on the globe in a matter of minutes.

Stassen Hints He'll Try for Governorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold Stassen appears about ready to quit his job as White House disarmament aide to plunge into a bid for governor of Pennsylvania.

The 50-year-old Republican, who once was governor of Minnesota, reportedly hasn't made a final decision that now is the time to end his nearly five-year stint with the Eisenhower administration. But his friends believe he will make this decision soon.

A new sign that Stassen is moving in that direction came Monday night when he disclosed he has written GOP chairman in all of Pennsylvania's 67 counties informing them he is seriously considering seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the primary next May 20.

Previous indications that Stassen might run have received a chilly reception from Republican party leaders in Pennsylvania. In some cases, the reaction has been one of downright hostility.

Stassen, a legal resident of Valley Forge for the last 10 years,

Shirley Temple Remembers Wonderful Life as Actress

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What does Shirley Temple remember of her golden childhood?

A few cruelties, but mostly a wonderful life of continual make-believe.

She reflected on her early days as she sipped a soft drink in the Brown Derby after a day of preparation for her new TV show. Her memories go back to when she was barely 2½, she said.

"No, I don't think it's because my mother has told me things that happened," she remarked. "My earliest memories were of the Baby Burlesque series (1932) when the director wouldn't let the mothers on the set."

"He wasn't a very nice man I can remember a short we did about Tarzan, in which I played Jane. He had a boy and me sit on an ostrich which had been hooded. Then he removed the hood while the camera was rolling and the ostrich ran. I was very scared."

After that, she did a series as the sister of Junior Coughlin, then was discovered by Fox. She recalled attending a preview of one of her shorts. She and her parents were accosted by a song writer in the lobby. She auditioned in a music bungalow, singing "The Green Grass Grew All Around." Studio boss Winfield Sheehan put her in a musical number with James Dunn in "Stand Up and Cheer," then signed her to a contract.

"But for some reason, he put me into bit parts only," she said. "Paramount wanted me for 'Little Miss Marker,' but Mr. Sheehan wouldn't let me go. Paramount waited until he gave in. 'Little Miss Marker' made her a star. She did another film at Paramount, 'Now and Forever,' then returned to Fox to headline a series of films that established her as the No. 1 draw at the box office."

Nearly every film called for a crying scene, and legends grew up as to how it was accomplished. Recently it was printed that her mother spanked her to induce tears.

"Utterly untrue," she said. "All I had to do was go in a corner with my mother and concentrate. I didn't even think of anything sad. Pretty soon the tears would come, and my mother would cry too, out of sympathy. I can still do it today."

Shirley said she has never had regrets about her childhood—"I could live more make-believe than most children." She was happy that she started in an outside school in the seventh grade—"The competition is good for you."

Negro County To Be Dissolved

Alabama Whites Fear Domination by Blacks

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama voters have authorized the Legislature to abolish Macon County rather than see it come under Negro domination.

The decision came in Tuesday's election on 25 proposed amendments to the state constitution.

It reflects the Deep South's fear that the civil rights bill enacted by the last Congress to enforce voting rights may lead to Negro political control of local governments. Macon County's whites are outnumbered 7-1.

The county may now be abolished by legislative act and its territory added to adjoining counties where whites are in the majority.

Returns from 1,690 of the state's 2,700 boxes gave 51,478 for the Macon amendment to 36,820 against.

Macon's County seat, Tuskegee, is the home of Tuskegee Institute, famous Negro college. The Legislature this year narrowed Tuskegee's city limits to exclude most Negro voters. The town's white-owned businesses then were boycotted by Negro residents.

THE MACON amendment came from its own state senator, Sam Englehardt, who is executive secretary of the Alabama Assn. of Citizens Councils, a segregationist organization.

The only organized opposition against the amendment was a last-minute appeal by the Tuskegee Civic Assn., a Negro organization. It said the proposal was a device to maintain "an undemocratic system of social relationships, a system which cannot be justified morally or politically."

Englehardt said the Negro majority in his county, with the help of the new federal civil rights law, might be able to elect Negroes to county office.

A new sign that Stassen is moving in that direction came Monday night when he disclosed he has written GOP chairman in all of Pennsylvania's 67 counties informing them he is seriously considering seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the primary next May 20.

What Does Arms Race Mean In Our Future?

As a result of all the talk, some of it from so-called top political leaders of both major parties in this country, a great many people easily could get the idea that the most critical problem facing the United States is concerned with how much the nation may spend in a huge outlay of cash to enlarge America's missile arsenal and scientific reserves.

This, these leaders declare will put an end to any hope of income tax cuts; the tax may go higher.

Various publications are quoting the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division as warning that the weapons of war now being developed, although their destructiveness is fantastic, have weaknesses that may cause early models to be discarded after the first few years. Meanwhile much more money will have to be spent on improved models, possibly with no end to this cycle of needing newer models in the future.

In this appears to lie the dilemma; it is an astounding warning word picture that the richest nations may have to enter a frantic race in the struggle for supremacy. This creates a drab and perilous outlook.

It is further pointed out that cynics believe man "progresses" only when prodded by national emergencies, that the greatest booms to mankind have been by-products of war efforts.

The peacetime application of atomic energy or rocket propulsion may some day be said to "offset" the staggering investment of human talent and natural resources in first using them for defense. But can it ever be said that this process of extracting material benefit from the immense effort to retain a military "edge" is efficient? Many atomic power plants could be built and for years generate electricity that would light whole cities for the price of developing a single hydrogen bomb, it is said.

No one suggests that the United States withdraw from the "marathon," permitting the enemies of liberty to win by default. Yet there is today, as never before, a compelling need for so organizing the technological—and political—resources available to free men as to allow for constant wastage and unremitting stress.

Maybe we must accept the fact that "absolute" security is unobtainable; also the fact that year after year our raw wealth and our finest minds must be devoted to an enterprise that offers no return in human betterment. The very best nuclear and missile devices today may be scrap tomorrow.

Some may see in this a faintly glowing hope. No nation, or even community of nations, can forever go on arming and rearming, and rearing again, military establishments at such a fearful price. Because no nation is safe from devastating retaliation, all-out war is unthinkable. Perhaps, then, there is hope that, in desperation born of economic fatigue, governments may agree eventually to end military preparations. Even Cold War may become too expensive.

The prospects are dim now. The Kremlin appears relentless; it is pressing ahead fiercely, almost insanely, throwing the resources of a captive people and empire into a tremendous effort to win world military and political pre-eminence.

This, many believe, means the United States and its allies must continue to meet that challenge so long as they can. No one knows how long the Russian government will keep it up—or can keep it up. The end is not in sight. America must gird itself for a prolonged and exhausting period of insecurity unless there is international recognition of the terrible futility of such a struggle.

'Perfect Hotel' Is Her Goal

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Evelyn Sharp, a cheerful widow with a merry laugh, yearns to write a perfect sonnet, but she'd rather create a perfect hotel.

"I'm afraid one is about as difficult as the other," said Mrs. Sharp, the only woman in the United States who owns and operates a hotel chain.

She writes poetry and paints to relieve the tension of running her $8 million-a-year enterprise. She learned the business from her late husband, Jesse Sharp, a financier who died in 1941.

Over the years Mrs. Sharp has had a financial interest in some 22 hotels. But she has cut her string to four in order to concentrate on her goal—the building of a group of ultra-luxurious hotels catering only to the carriage trade.

"That's what really interests me," she said. "There is a real need for luxury hotels in America. What's the use of having a booming economy if you can't live well and travel well?" Her hotels now are the Stanhope and Gotham here, the Saratoga (N.Y.) Inn, and the Beverly-Wilshire in California. She values them at $23 million.

An attractive woman with blue eyes and reddish brown hair, Mrs. Sharp can call most of her 1,000 employees by their first name, is minutely familiar with every detail of her hotels. She did the interior decorating herself.

She has added such little personal touches as having free perfume in the room for an arriving lady guest, a copy of Fortune magazine for a male guest.

As we sat chatting in the dining room of the Stanhope, Mrs. Sharp noticed an elderly lady sitting alone at a nearby table. Nodding at the lady, she said to one of her staff:

"Gus, she looks sad today.

Send some fresh cut flowers to her room so they'll be there when she returns. Make them pink and white. I think she'd like those colors best."

Here Mrs. Sharp gives a woman who wants to succeed in the business world.

"Don't take every small misfortune to heart, or brood if something goes wrong now and then."

"Lead a good life—so you've got the strength to do your work. If you're tired, you're whipped. Say what you think to people without mincing words. Be clear. Then you can get things done without rehashing them."

"If you have a decision to make, think it through clearly, then act promptly. Don't be afraid to burn your bridges behind you."

She practices what she preaches. She paid $7 million for the Beverly-Wilshire hotel after seeing it only once.

Passport Evidence of Allegiance

By George Sokolsky

Article 13 of the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights states:

"1 Everyone has the right to freedom of movement and residence within the borders of each state.

"2 Everyone has the right to leave any country, including his own, and to return to his country."

To some, the theory runs that according to this provision, the government of the United States is bound by this clause in an alien document to abrogate its authority over its own passports. If this view is correct, why is it not possible to find clauses in all sorts of United Nations documents which vitiate the Constitution of the United States and acts of Congress?

It would be interesting to know how many of the 82 governments in the United Nations have given up their authority over their passports to satisfy this clause of the United Nations Declaration.

Will, for instance, Soviet Russia permit Alexander Kerensky to enter and leave Russian territory without molestation? Will Poland permit Gen. Bor to enter and leave Poland without molestation?

The proposition seems, on the face of it, to be absurd because governments usually take their passports seriously and do not permit them to be used by anyone anywhere or under any circumstances. If the usage of the passport becomes so uncontrolled, what is the particular value of such a document?

Actually, in many places, passports need to be closely guarded because they are stolen, so great is their value. Why is it that only in the United States the passport is being brought into ill-repute, to be reduced to a mere card of identification?

The passport is a symptom of a degenerating authority in our society. Everybody talks about the Bill of Rights but who wants to turn these 10 amendments of the Constitution into an instrument of anarchy? The Bill of Rights is an orderly statement of limitations upon government; it is not designed to make government lawless and life disorderly.

It could not have been intended that confusion should take the place of orderly process or the Constitution would not have been written at all.

For what is the need of a constitution for all the people of each citizen is to decide for himself what he is to do about those matters which must be done in common cooperatively?

The passport is an evidence of allegiance. It is used to be a document of protection in those days when governments respected each other as human beings respected each other's rights, privileges and obligations.

Today, the passport is largely a means of identification. We no longer send gunboats and Marines to defend the validity of our passports; we even permit backward nations like Saudi Arabia to dictate to us the kinds of Americans who may carry an American passport to an American-leased airport.

Be that as it may, the United States has not yet fallen that low that the passport means nothing at all and those who refuse to abide by rules and regulations really place the government of the United States in a humiliating position.

One of the first questions that Congress should tackle when it reassembles is a closer and neater definition of the passport, specifying precisely who is entitled to use an American passport and how it is to be decided who is not to use a passport.

The legislation ought to be sufficiently clear that no Supreme Court justice with a penchant for writing his own law will find grounds for committing a nuisance.

It is a manifestation of the times that so many institutions and activities that have been taken for granted for centuries suddenly become new issues over which new interpretations are demanded.

This is not because the institutions are no longer useful; rather it is that the times are awry and men seek to do what they should not do, like those little boys and girls from the United States who went to Red China from Soviet Russia in violation of their passports.

Thus far, there is no evidence that anything constructive has come from their recalcitrance. Perhaps those who are still in Red China are having a good time; they would do better if they had gone back to school where they belonged.

The bravado of youth is often attractive, but it can be costly.

Diet and Health Be Sure Baby Gets Right Kind of Shoes

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MAYBE human beings were better off when we didn't wear clothes.

Now I'm not advocating nudism. I just want to point out that the body is a near-perfect machine that will run smoothly if we don't interfere with it too much. In general, it just doesn't need artificial help to develop.

Causes: Harm
Ill-fitting and restrictive clothing actually causes harm, no matter what its protective benefit may be.

Take baby's shoes, for example. I have always recommended soft soles for infants' shoes. And now there appears to be a growing tendency among pediatricians to recommend what they call "barefoot freedom" in baby footwear.

This was brought to my attention by an article, written by Mildred C. Martin, which appeared recently in an American Medical Association publication. The author had interviewed 175 doctors on the subject of foot care for youngsters.

No Restriction

Most of the doctors agreed that the best foot gear is that which permits a baby's foot to develop unhampered by restrictive shoes.

You don't put a perfectly good arm in a sling or bind a normal abdomen with a tight corset. So, why place a stiff, binding shoe on a baby's foot?

Nature intended the baby to rotate on his heels and grip with his toes when he begins to walk. He can't do it with a stiff sole in his way.

The proper shoes should follow the general shape of the foot, but should not be miniature copies of your own foot gear. They shouldn't be "fitted" to the tiny foot. Rather, they should provide plenty of freedom for foot movement.

The heel of the shoe should fit snugly enough to prevent slipping, but the sole should be flat and the full length of the shoes.

Restrictive Laces

The toes should be wide enough to allow the foot to spread and flex his toes at will. There should be no restrictive laces. A clasp, buckle or simple tie is preferable.

As I have mentioned previously, I advise shoes made of leather. The soles of the feet contain more sweat glands proportionately than any other part of the body. Leather permits the foot to "breathe."

You might keep this advice in mind when you do your Christmas shopping. The right kind of shoes would make a nice gift for baby.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

A.C.: Iodine in the radioactive form is being used to treat certain diseases. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: Radioactive iodine is being used to treat people with certain forms of goiter. It is also being used, with some success, in treating cancer of the thyroid gland.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Premier Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower was a literary Sputnik. Of all the Russian letters to Eisenhower this last one was the best written, the shrewdest and the best timed.

In its way, it had the same effect as the real Sputniks: it made the American allies sit up and take notice. Letters similar to the one received by Eisenhower were sent to the other allies at the same time.

They were delivered at a moment when the Allies—then about to open their North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Paris—were divided on what to do in the face of Russia's obvious military power.

The letter divided them some more.

The American reaction to Bulganin's note was the same as Eisenhower's first reaction to the Sputniks: an attempt to minimize its importance.

The administration hasn't yet answered the letter or issued a formal statement on it. Instead, it let two press officers dismiss it as propaganda before the State Department had even released a translation of it.

But this wasn't the reaction of the Allies. Some of them arrived at Paris wanting far more serious attention for the letter than a court dismissal.

Their reaction—even though the letter upon testing may prove to be only propaganda—was: Let's take it more seriously than that and try to find out whether the Russians mean it.

In short, Bulganin said: The arms race gets worse and may end up badly for everybody. Before it does, the nations ought to disarm, or at least get down to talking disarmament, even if it requires another summit meeting. This letter hit the West Europeans at a time when they were still jittery over the realization—forced on them by the flight of the Sputniks—that Russia had missiles and that atomic-tipped missiles could flatten Western Europe.

So for them, the thought of disarmament now has more attraction than ever. Yet the Eisenhower administration brought to the NATO meeting nothing much more than proposals for even greater armaments.

The United States had to yield a little bit to the European desire to explore Bulganin's letter for a possible escape from the arms race. Tuesday NATO moved in two cautious directions, both a reaction to Bulganin's letter:

They talked of:
1. Setting up machinery to try for new disarmament talks with Russia. Such talks have been going on for years. The last one broke up a few months ago.

2. Setting up machinery to examine Bulganin's letter and see whether it might be worthwhile to undertake new talks between foreign ministers. This wouldn't be a summit meeting that would include Eisenhower, Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev.

If Bulganin's letter was propaganda only, the Russians already have obtained a lot of mileage from it. This country has done nothing yet to offset it.

GEORGE OPPENHEIMER, member of the Players' Club, found a letter in his box one evening, tore it open and read it before he discovered it was not addressed to him at all. As a matter of fact, it was meant for one of his good friends—and it came from a tailor pleading for payment of a bill almost a year overdue.

Oppenheimer scarcely had had time to deposit the letter in the proper box when his friend burst in, radiating his usual charm and air of confidence. He glanced hastily at the note, tore it into shreds, and remarked in a stage whisper, "Poor silly little girl!"

"I admit," said the waiter, his eye on an escape route, "that this is rather a smallish steak, but I think I can guarantee, sir, that it will take you a long time to eat it!"

What Does Arms Race Mean In Our Future?

As a result of all the talk, some of it from so-called top political leaders of both major parties in this country, a great many people easily could get the idea that the most critical problem facing the United States is concerned with how much the nation may spend in a huge outlay of cash to enlarge America's missile arsenal and scientific reserves.

This, these leaders declare will put an end to any hope of income tax cuts; the tax may go higher.

Various publications are quoting the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division as warning that the weapons of war now being developed, although their destructiveness is fantastic, have weaknesses that may cause early models to be discarded after the first few years. Meanwhile much more money will have to be spent on improved models, possibly with no end to this cycle of needing newer models in the future.

In this appears to lie the dilemma; it is an astounding warning word picture that the richest nations may have to enter a frantic race in the struggle for supremacy. This creates a drab and perilous outlook.

It is further pointed out that cynics believe man "progresses" only when prod by national emergencies, that the greatest booms to mankind have been by-products of war efforts.

The peacetime application of atomic energy or rocket propulsion may some day be said to "offset" the staggering investment of human talent and natural resources in first using them for defense. But can it ever be said that this process of extracting material benefit from the immense effort to retain a military "edge" is efficient? Many atomic power plants could be built and for years generate electricity that would light whole cities for the price of developing a single hydrogen bomb, it is said.

No one suggests that the United States withdraw from the "marathon," permitting the enemies of liberty to win by default. Yet there is today, as never before, a compelling need for so organizing the technological—and political—resources available to free men as to allow for constant wastage and unremitting stress.

Maybe we must accept the fact that "absolute" security is unobtainable; also the fact that year after year our raw wealth and our finest minds must be devoted to an enterprise that offers no return in human betterment. The very best nuclear and missile devices today may be scrap tomorrow.

Some may see in this a faintly glowing hope. No nation, or even community of nations, can forever go on arming and rearming, and rearing again, military establishment at such a fearful price. Because no nation is safe from devastating retaliation, all-out war is unthinkable. Perhaps, then, there is hope that, in desperation born of economic fatigue, governments may agree eventually to end military preparations. Even Cold War may become too expensive.

The prospects are dim now. The Kremlin appears relentless; it is pressing ahead fiercely, almost insanely, throwing the resources of a captive people and empire into a tremendous effort to win world military and political pre-eminence.

This, many believe, means the United States and its allies must continue to meet that challenge so long as they can. No one knows how long the Russian government will keep it up—or can keep it up. The end is not in sight. America must gird itself for a prolonged and exhausting period of insecurity unless there is international recognition of the terrible futility of such a struggle.

SHOP TALK

By SHARON

Our shopping tour for today was more like an onslaught, as your shopper and her 4-year-old male progeny attacked the various Washington Courthouse merchants.

Having children, of necessity, on our minds we found a gift for any child which would offer joy not only for this Christmas but for all the years of his or her life.

This gift is an introduction to classical music. It is a sturdy cardboard record chest containing 8 records (encompassing 48 minutes of playing time). These records contain a bit of everything from Bach to Bartok. We really do not feel that a child can be too young to enjoy this gift, as even the smallest infant enjoys melodic sounds. This is priced at $3.95.

At the same price and size, another chest holds an introduction to the orchestra and all its instruments, which would perhaps be of more interest to the school age child.

WHILE we were engrossed in our selections at the spartanular shop, our comrade in arms was energetically trying out all the toy instruments about, and he seemed to have a definite flair for be-bop.

At least we presume it was be-bop as we were unable to identify a single note he played.

It is of some significance that the proprietor of this store, with perspiring brow and weak smile, accompanied us out of the place and half way up the block.

We ducked into a men's shop before he could signal the gardames and were certainly glad we did. It was here that we discovered something new in men's shirts.

THIS SHIRT is of white on white jacquard with wide spread collar. The entire front of the shirt is done in small stitched down pleats. It is elegant and unusual, without being pretty-pretty. This is priced at $8.95 and as we viewed this shirt, we considered the price very low for such workmanship. This is by Excella.

We saw many other pieces of masculine apparel which appealed to us here, but it was at this point that our pride and joy tackled a lovely paisley robe and pajama ensemble and sent it to the floor.

Mrs. Carl Mason, who was making some purchases in the store at the time graciously pointed out that moments before she had knocked over the same display. It did soften our embarrassment but she had explained with humility while we seemed to detect a bit of malicious glee in our heir's eye. It did seem a good time to make a quick departure.

Do you have a very very small Hop-a-Long Cassidy among your acquaintances?

At next store we found just the thing for him... infant cowboy boots in felt at $2.98. If this young man is the more sophisticated type, you may purchase the infant felt brown and white saddle shoes at $1.98.

ALONG MORE practical lines, for the older set, we discovered corduroy slacks with wide elastic waistband. These slacks come in two size ranges, 3 to 6x - priced at $2.98 and sizes 7 to 12 at $3.98. We don't think we are giving too much away when we say that these are copies of a popular children's slack that sells for almost double the price. They come in either red or black.

New for little girls are the reversible skirts. These are modestly priced at $5.98 in the smaller sizes and $7.98 in the larger. The fabrics and patterns offered in these skirts is comparable in every way to those offered to Mother in the better women's salons.

WE YANKED our junior-sized shopper off the hobby horse and progressed to a shop featuring women's fashions.

The first thing which caught our eye was the Saratoga Trunk. This, at last, is a jewel box which will hold "all" of your costume jewelry.

While we could keep our precious gems in any available aspirin box, we have been chagrined for a number of years to find no jewel box available to encompass all of our costume jewelry. This, aside from its ample size, is a lovely thin with simulated brocade top and comes in a nice selection of colors. Priced at $14.95.

At this same shop we were enchanted with a cloud-soft blouse-type sweater of lamb's wool and angora. The colors were the thing which drew us to it at once as this comes in apricot, mint green or toast... each a lovely jewel tone.

THE COLLAR of this sweater ends in long fringed ties and it has the very smart 3/4 length pull-up sleeves. At first glance the texture of the yarn and the styling led this writer to conclude that it was cashmere. This is the height of casual elegance at only $14.95.

AT THIS POINT our pint-sized partner had become an integral part of the window display, so we admitted defeat and scurried homeward.

SHOULD YOU desire additional information about the items mentioned here, please call Sharon at 3-5291.

Christmas Greeting Travels 8,000 Miles

YELLOW SPRINGS (AP)—It traveled about 8,000 miles before getting here, but Roger Brown's Christmas message to his fellow students at Antioch College finally made it.

A senior from Buffalo, N. Y., Brown is working as a meteorologist in the Antarctic during time off from Antioch.

The message was sent from the Antarctic by radio, picked up in Syracuse, N. Y., and turned over to the Home Service Department of the Red Cross.

Harvard University was founded by the Puritans in 1636. But, it was not until 1639 that the name was officially changed to honor John Harvard, who contributed money and books to aid the college.

WHS Singers Present Concert For Rotarians

With appropriate music of the Christmas season for a background, the program presented by vocal groups made up of 27 Washington High School students at Tuesday's Rotary Club luncheon meeting, won high favor from Rotarians and guests.

It was accorded the compliment of being called "among the best ever presented before this club" by President Robert Haigler in offering the thanks of the club for the concert.

The youthful singers made up three groups, a girls' ensemble, a male ensemble and a mixed ensemble. All were under the direction of Grover Baber, director of vocal music in the high school here. He was introduced by Emerson Warner of the December program committee.

The program included "The Sleigh", by the mixed ensemble as the singers walked from an outer room into the presence of the audience. "Cherubic Hymn" and "O Holy Night", with Miss Sylvia Lee singing a solo part, both being directed by Dick Willis a member of the boys' ensemble;

"Aura Lee" and "Riff Song" by the male ensemble; "I'm a Little Pine Tree" and "Twas the Night Before Christmas" by the mixed ensemble; "Pa, Get Out the Glue Pot" by girls' group; "Jingle Bells" by the combined ensembles; Solo, "White Christmas" by Miss Barbara Rose; "Winter Wonderland", combined ensemble, with solos by Sandra Mickle and Buddy Lynch.

As the concert closed the young people sang "Merry Christmas" as they left the audience to return to school.

Miss Kay Minshall acted as accompanist for the entire program. Personnel of the three groups

Girls ensemble: Judy Brooks, Jean Conaway, Ann Johnson, Sylvia Lee, Sandra Michael, Jennifer Newbrey, Sheila Robinette, Barbara Rose, Coralee Shaw and Jane Whiteside.

A Rotarian guest was Otis Hockman of Mt. Sterling. Other guests were Harry Ilser with W. P. Noble and Don Patterson with Robert Lisk.

Ohio Valley Generators Expand Rapidly

CINCINNATI (AP)—Harry M. Mack, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, declared here today that new electric utility steam-plant facilities scheduled for completion along the Ohio River and its tributaries between now and the end of 1960 will add 2,986,000 kilowatts to the nation's power supply.

That, Beck said in a year-end report on Ohio valley development, is more than 150 per cent of the total installed capacity of Grand Coulee and about three times that of the United States' share of the St. Lawrence Seaway power development.

All of the new Ohio River plants will be privately-owned. Mack said the utility generating capacity along the Ohio and its tributaries has grown from 4.7 per cent of the national total in 1941 to 9.2 per cent by the end of 1956. "The rapid expansion," he said, "is based on low-cost coal moved over the Ohio River and its tributaries from mining fields."

In that connection, Mack said 41 million tons of coal was carried by Ohio River barges last year—approximately half the entire river traffic.

"Coal is power and the cost of power, domestic or industrial, is based on the price of coal," the report said. "Coal transported on the Ohio River costs less than other coal so the benefits of the low-cost power accrue to consumers out on the end of the line."

The report said 62 per cent of the coal moved on the Ohio in 1956 was delivered to electric utility plants.

The first book ever printed in English is believed to have been A History of Troy. It was printed by William Caxton in Flanders in 1474.

Round about Fayette County

By R. E. KELLEY
For years the "Dutch Treat Club" which one of its chairmen describes as an "unorganized organization" was about the only group of business and professional men and farmers in the community.

The club, which had no officers except the chairman, who was elected yearly, met every Thursday noon at the YMCA (now the Hotel Washington), where they had a great deal of fun.

It was chiefly a social organization, and the only requirement for membership was to be invited by a member, attend one of the meetings, and respond to a call for a speech.

Of course each one paid for his own lunch, hence the name of the organization, "Dutch Treat Club." The club was in existence for years and did much toward promoting good fellowship in the community generally, as well as helping with civic projects which were for the good of the community.

When the first World War got underway, the club disbanded in December 1917, so that all members could devote their entire time to the work of winning the war.

When the war was over the club again resumed its meetings, and lasted for years, until, as I recall it, the "Y" closed its doors. Then the club automatically disbanded, and later was followed by an active Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and Lions Club.

BUCKEYES PLANTED

After two unsuccessful efforts to have a Buckeye tree on the Court-house lawn where one of the shade trees is missing, I have tried a new plan—that of planting buckeyes on the spot in the hope that they will come up next spring and that one tree can be saved.

On Nov. 30 I planted three buckeyes from a tree growing on the lawn of Mrs. Willard Wilson, Clinton Ave., so if the buckeyes grow the one saved will be strictly a home product.

Once before I planted a little buckeye tree on the lawn and competing children broke it off.

Last spring I planted two very small ones on the spot and they died for lack of water.

Perhaps the third time will be successful.

STILL BADLY MIXED

It is always interesting to note the large number of different railroad companies represented in the average freight train.

For instance a few days ago I watched a DT&I freight pulling through and counted cars from 11 different roads in addition to a liberal sprinkling of DT&I freight cars.

Work of keeping track of the cars is a big task, as each railroad must account to the other railroads for all cars used and pay certain fees when the cars are held more than the usual time.

FROM POINTS AFAR!

Apparently there is an abundance of Christmas trees in the local markets, or there will be by the end of the week. It is interesting to note that some of the trees come from the State of Washington and others from Maine.

Still others are being shipped in from various points, including the usual supply of native Ohio scrub pine which are found "growing native" in many of the hill counties of Ohio.

From Tacoma, Wash., come hemlocks, and from Maine the Eastern balsams and the Scotch pines grown in many places, are used in large numbers for Christmas trees.

The scrub, or New Jersey, pines are usually hauled into the city by truck, and are cut on the hills of several of the Southern Ohio counties. Usually they do not show the class of the Scotch pines and sell at lower prices. Hemlocks, of course, are native to Ohio as well as western states.

Several stores and other places in the city are handling the trees, with indications there will be enough for everyone—if you don't wait too long!

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Charles A. Lindbergh was adding new laurels after flying solo to Mexico City, where he was received by a huge throng and given unusual recognition. Four minutes after he landed on the field at Mexico City, the Associated Press had the news in the Record Herald office.

The Pennsylvania Railroad was planning to erect flasher signals on "islands" to be built in the center of S. Fayette and South Main Sts.

Back sheep claims here amounted to $4,000 with funds available for paying only a small part of them.

Twenty-four grain-carrying vessels were tied up near the Soo, in Lake Huron, where ice had blocked the locks, apparently for the winter.

The YWCA purchased property of Alva V. Rodgers on North Hinde St.

The B&O withdrew two of its daily freight trains on the Dayton-Wellston division.

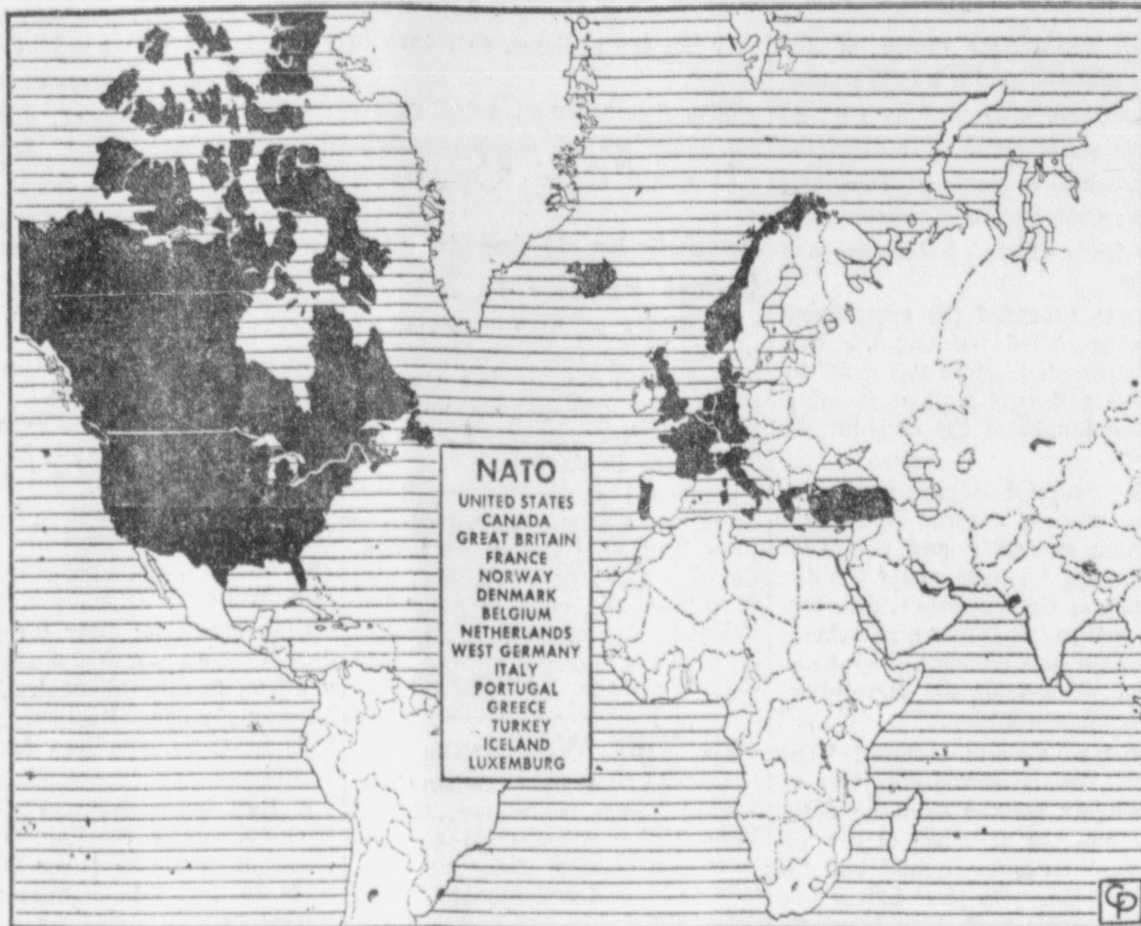

The Ohio Seed Improvement Association voted to offer a Floyd Eichelberger Memorial Trophy cup for the best corn shown in Ohio each year.

Three local men pleaded guilty to stealing hogs in Madison County and were sentenced to terms in the Ohio Penitentiary.

YMCA membership had passed the 600 mark. Hal V. Hunt was then secretary.

Maynard Company UR K of P, entertained members of Confidence Lodge and Eastwood Co. of Columbus at banquet and concert.

The U. S. Submarine S-4 sank after an accident with six members of the crew entombed.

PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS—Here is the geographic picture of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as its members look to the current Paris meeting for answers to such problems as West Germany's talk of quitting NATO and neutralizing itself, threat of Communists taking over in Indonesia, Tito's renunciation of American arms aid (Yugoslavia might turn to Russia), and doubts about America's striking power in event of aggression. Another problem: If somebody does start something, who decides if and when the NATO trigger is pulled in retaliation?

Lighted Evergreens Used Even in Soviet Festivals

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lighted evergreens, symbol of a season of gaiety, are finding their way into more and more communities and homes the world over, even behind the Iron Curtain. The appeal for children is universal.

In Iron Curtain countries, where the Communist Party does not recognize religion and Christmas and Hanukkah celebrations are not authorized, the state instead substitutes New Year festivities, with a Grandfather Frost instead of Santa Claus and a New Year's fir tree instead of the Christmas tree. A lighted tree nevertheless!

In the U. S. Office of Education booklet, "Education in the USSR," it is revealed that in some 360 Soviet cities these New Year's festivities are arranged by the party and state through the trade unions. Lighted fir trees are set up in community centers, clubs, schools, theaters, etc.

The largest of these celebrations, according to the survey, takes place in the white marble Hall of Columns of the Moscow House of Trade Unions, where a giant fir is lavishly trimmed. The lobbies of the hall are decorated by state supported artists and sculptors. Visitors come from various parts to see the tree, which is lighted for two weeks. There are parties for children, dancing around the tree, performances by trained animals, puppet plays, and dramatic scenes presented by state-supported actors.

In Washington, where children of diplomats from many non-Christian countries go to school and play with youngsters who do, families go along with their pleas for a lighted tree and even a small exchange of gifts.

Mrs. Saba Zahruddin, wife of the economic minister of the Pakistan embassy, says her 8-year-old daughter Anjum, nicknamed "Bumpy," is writing Santa and expecting a lighted tree.

Mrs. Roshan Dastgir, wife of the commercial attaché, says her son Fazli, nearly 3, also has caught the fever.

In Pakistan the birth of Mohammed is celebrated in May and the sacrificial lamb is traditionally offered to the prophet each August on behalf of each son in a family. Mrs. Zahruddin, having no sons, has written her family to proffer a lamb for Bumpy instead. "While in this country, however, many diplomatic families almost have no choice than to provide a tree and let the children exchange gifts," she said. "They want to be like their little American friends."

Friendliness Pays Off

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—John F. Giangreco, operator of a non-union barber shop, gave a free haircut to a young man marching in a union picket line in front of the shop. The appreciative picket then went away.

Christmas Vespers Sunday Afternoon

The Chancel Choir of the First Presbyterian Church will present "Christmas Vespers" at 4:30 p. m. Sunday in the church sanctuary.

Beginning at 4:15 p. m., Miss Jo Ann Davis, organist, will present a program of organ music, including a "Christmas Pastoral" by Markker "Gesu Bambino" by Yon, "Jesu Joy of Man's Desire" by Bach and "Pastoral Symphony" from "The Messiah" by Handel.

The choir, directed by Grover Baber, will sing the cantata, "Child Jesus" by Joseph Clokey and Hazel Kirk. Solo parts will be sung by Mrs. Lloyd Fennig, soprano, Robert Parish, baritone and Faber, tenor.

Other selections the choir will present include the "Carol of the Bells" by Holst, "The Shepherd's Story" by Dickinson, "Never Night Again" by Walter, "Lo, How a Rose 'Ere Blooming" by Praetorius and "Cantique De Noel" by Adam. The Rev. W. Neil Hand, pastor of the church will read the Scripture and offer the Invocation and Benediction.

Section Torn Out Of Records of Village
SCITUATE, Mass. — The big question at the town hall is, who tore an entire section out of the newly bound copy of the 1952-55 town reports, and why?

The town has bound copies of all the reports from about 1850 on, available for inspection at the selectmen's office.

The loss was discovered when the town counsel attempted to look up something concerning the March 1952 town meeting.

The Legacy of Luke

the very fundament of the mighty promise bestowed on mankind.

Luke frowned and shook his head.

The old apostle, Matthew, didn't consider it essential, nor did John, another of the venerable 11. John had not yet written his gospel, and wouldn't mention the specific points when he did. Mark's gospel, already written, didn't have the material either.

It was up to Luke to get it. If he didn't, the world would never know.

He stood at the open doorway of the small dispensary he had set up in Caesarea, and fingered the medical emblem hanging at his neck, the entwined serpents of the Greek god of healing, Asclepius.

A smile touched his lips. The whole, absurd pantheon of heathen deities had been swept from his thinking, by the clarity of Christ, but the traditional old symbol still served to assure patients of his medical qualifications.

Luke had studied, probably either at the school of Cos, or Rhodes or Tarsus, the native city of Paul, who called him the "beloved physician." Like all educated Greeks, Luke had sung in choruses, acted in dramas, could recite Homer.

He likely had perused Strabo's many-volumed geography, as indicated by his accuracy with places and terrain in his book of Acts. He was versed in medicine of the day, including antiseptics, cathartics, sedatives and surgery.

The master biologist, Cornelius Celsus of Rome, with his advanced theory of the porous composition of the body, was a leading medical contemporary of Luke's. The Hippocratic oath had long been a professional credo.

It probably had hung on the wall of Luke's clinic in Antioch where he had practiced, its words traced in colored thread on framed parchment:

"... I will keep my art and my life in purity and holiness . . . Whosoever house I enter, I will enter for the benefit of the sick . . ."

In the Syrian capital, Antioch, then the world's third greatest city next to Rome and Alexandria, Luke got a vivid view of the prevailing condition of man and his notions when Christianity was in its tiny infancy.

It was a civilization of brute strength, of might makes right, of the starving, disease-ridden poor, of the indolent, profligate rich, of hordes of sweating slaves, of crass superstitions, debauchery and bestial cruelty.

Mass human slaughter was the choice entertainment at the amphitheater of Antioch. It made a bloody, senseless show as lions and leopards clawed apart slaves or convicts—the bestiarii — defenseless with only nets and tridents.

There, too, in Antioch's suburbs, was the famed Daphne suburb, with its groves, fountains, temples and baths dedicated to Apollo and Artemis, Greek cults that had degenerated into sensuality, perversion and sadistic rituals.

So it was that when the evangelists, Paul, Barnabas, Nicolas or others there in Antioch won over Luke, he recognized in Christ the dawn of light and health where before had been only darkness and misery.

"To live is Christ," as Paul had said. "So faith, hope, love abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love."

Luke had joined Paul in his subsequent travels, but now the great old fighter for the faith languished in prison here in Caesarea, held as a political prisoner of Rome on charges of stirring dissension.

Action on the case kept being delayed, and Paul, as a Roman citizen, had appealed to Caesar—to Rome. It would be a long time, two years, before he could be taken there, and while Luke waited, he had his chance.

It was only 75 miles to Jerusalem and Bethlehem, only 40 miles to Nazareth, the home village of Jesus. Perhaps records or persons

Wayne School Pupils Offer Unusual Christmas Pageant

The ghost of Christmas past hovered over some 500 parents and friends who turned out for the Wayne Schools annual Christmas pageant in the school house Monday night.

Eight scenes, depicting Christ-mases for 1957 all the way back to 1223, were coupled with a ninth scene which showed "Christmas Every Year." More than 250 children in grades one through 12 participated.

For the "Christmas Every Year" scene, which closed the program, the whole audience joined with the cast in singing the popular carol "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Separate ensembles representing grades one, two and three, grades four, five and six, and grades seven and eight, took part, along with who had known Jesus could tell him what he needed to know.

So it was that during this interval in Caesarea, Luke must have done the digging, the interviewing and touring about the countryside that enabled him to write the gospel that bears his name—and thus to preserve for mankind the immortal story of Christmas.

a boys' ensemble from the high school, a girls' high school ensemble, and a mixed high school chorus.

"MAIN STREET. Home Town U.S.A.," was the scene of the "Christmas 1957" scene. Jo Ellen Fletcher played the part of a Salvation Army Lassie and Sam Sollars played Santa Claus. Children, shoppers and parents filled the scene.

Tom Garringer, Jimmy Dunn and Eddie Rea played the parts of servicemen for a poignant and nostalgic look at "Christmas 1944."

"Winter Wonderland" was the theme of a look back at "Christmas 1924," which featured Debbie Herbert and Gay Harper as solo dancers, performing with a dancing chorus.

"O Little Town of Bethlehem" was presented by the seventh and eighth grade chorus as a tribute to "Christmas 1865."

FOR "Christmas 1818," the chorus sang "Silent Night." In an accompanying skit, Donald Strouth played the vicar, George Garringer the organist, Patricia Parker a girl and Roger Osborn a guitarist.

"The First American Carol," was depicted in a scene from "Christmas 1642," with Craig Thompson playing Father Jean De Brebeuf. Indians formed the chorus.

Playing the parts of three kings in a French Christmas skit from 1500 were Alan Foster, David Weaver and Gary Collins. They were accompanied by a chorus of easants.

FOR "Christmas 1223," the first nativity tableau was shown. Drew Farker played St. Francis of Assisi, Gary Kimball, Gary Conaway and Bob Hatfield were friars. Mary was Patricia Parker, and Floyd Smith was Joseph.

Programs were designed by Loy Overly, Bobby Jenkins and Jay Bonecutter. Janice Leeth, June Overly and Edna Mae Hoppes were narrators.

Mrs. Helen Huff, music teacher at the school, directed, with the assistance of the elementary teachers, Mrs. Kathleen Bush, Mrs. Petty Eakins, Mrs. Grace Judy, Mrs. Gladys Deering and Mrs. Martha Sollars.

Panama's Canal Share Said Unfair

PANAMA (AP) — Deputy Foreign Minister Ernesto Castellero says that Panama does not receive its fair share of Panama Canal revenues and sentiment is likely to grow for a 50 per cent cut.

Castellero said Panama granted the United States use of the canal zone "for the specific purposes of maintenance, security, operation and protection of the canal." He emphasized that the canal is on Panamanian territory.

The two countries signed a new treaty in 1955 increasing the annual U. S. rental payment to Panama from $40,000 to $1,930,000.

Section Torn Out Of Records of Village

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP) — The big question at the town hall is, who tore an entire section out of the newly bound copy of the 1952-55 town reports, and why?

The town has bound copies of all the reports from about 1850 on, available for inspection at the selectmen's office.

The loss was discovered when the town counsel attempted to look up something concerning the March 1952 town meeting.

The Legacy of Luke

the very fundement of the mighty promise bestowed on mankind.

Luke frowned and shook his head.

The old apostle, Matthew, didn't consider it essential, nor did John, another of the venerable 11. John had not yet written his gospel, and wouldn't mention the specific points when he did. Mark's gospel, already written, didn't have the material either.

It was up to Luke to get it. If he didn't, the world would never know.

He stood at the open doorway of the small dispensary he had set up in Caesarea, and fingered the medical emblem hanging at his neck, the entwined serpents of the Greek god of healing, Asclepius.

A smile touched his lips. The whole, absurd pantheon of heathen deities had been swept from his thinking, by the clarity of Christ, but the traditional old symbol still served to assure patients of his medical qualifications.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard goes to the Green Ghouls to get a spool of golden thread for Santa. The Ghouls live in a tree house and has a hundred arms. When Richard snatches the thread from her pocket she crushes him with her arms.

CHAPTER 13

THE BLACK DIAMOND
Richard struggled in the many arms of the Green Ghouls. Using all his strength he twisted back the arms that held him. But it was no use. When he freed himself from two arms a dozen more took their place.

He bent back one, broke another, twisted a third. Still the arms crushed him. It was impossible to escape and all Richard's strength was useless.

Suddenly he got an idea. He thought, "Breaking away from each arm does no good. What I must do is strike at the Ghouls herself. If I conquer her I will, at the same time, conquer the hundred arms."

It was the first time in his life he had ever thought his way out of trouble. He felt happy and unafraid.

He took a big breath and pinched his head into the stomach of the Green Ghouls. The mighty blow knocked the breath out of the creature and all arms collapsed.

Richard leaped away. He ran from the house and jumped to the ground. By the time the Ghouls recovered her breath Richard was a mile away. The Green Ghouls let out a roar of anger, a roar so powerful it caused a giant wind to sweep across the whole world. But the wind only helped to carry Richard on his way and the roar didn't frighten him for he was far beyond the reach of the hundred arms.

"You have done a good job," said Santa.

On and on Richard ran, never tiring, until at last he came to Santa's house.

"I did it!" he cried as he burst through the door. "I brought you the thread!"

He put the spool of golden thread on Santa's desk and then he stood there happier and prouder than he had ever been in his life.

"You have done a good job," said Santa.

"Where is Patrick Tweedle-knees?" asked Richard. "I would like him to know."

"He'll be along presently," said Santa. "In the meantime you come with me."

He took Richard into the kitchen and there on the table were platters of doughnuts and ginger cookies and lemon pie. There was a big white pitcher filled with chocolate milk shake and a blue pitcher filled with cherry pop.

Richard reached for a piece of lemon pie. But at that very moment Patrick Tweedle-knees came into the room.

"I did it!" said Richard. "I brought Santa the golden thread."

"So I heard," snapped Tweedle-knees. "But remember Santa said you must bring him two things and a coward like you will never get the second."

Richard put down the piece of lemon pie. "W-what is the second thing I must bring?"

"Now," said Santa, "you must bring to me a black diamond."

"A-and where will I find such a diamond?"

"From the third finger of the Phantom of the Sea."

"W-who is the Phantom of the Sea?" faltered Richard. "Who knows?" cried Tweedle-knees. "He has never been seen by any living creature. That is why he is called the Phantom."

"Then how do you know there is such a thing?" asked Richard. "And how do you know he wears a black diamond on his finger?"

"People have seen his giant foot prints by the side of the sea. They have heard his screams at night. And though they could not see his hands they could see and feel the black diamond on his finger."

Richard's heart sank and all his old fears came flooding back. He thought he could not bear to meet the Phantom of the Sea.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

ESKI, a little Eskimo child who lives 'way up in the Great White Country, far north of the Great Green Country, in which we live, is a good friend of Santa Claus. So Eski, as the youngster does every year at this time, visits Santa to see if he needs help with the packing of toys for children everywhere. Eski finds Santa looking worried, and two of Santa's friends, Mr. Weatherbee, the Weather Maker, and Old Doc Dickey pacing the floor.

"I CAN'T understand it," Santa tells Eski. "It's only seven days to Christmas and not one child has written me what he or she wants for Christmas!" Just then the phone rings and Santa quickly answers it.

AFTER Santa hangs up the phone he sinks down on a stool, sadly hiding his face in his hand. "Oh, this is terrible—terrible!" he moans. "What's wrong, Santa?" Eski asks him, "please tell us!" (To Be Continued)

Spare-the-Housewife Moves Promise Wonderful Future

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor
Life (they keep telling us) is due to grow ever brighter and easier for women in 1958.

And it's true that most of us have changed our housekeeping habits more than we realize with the exit in the last few years of the domestic servant. In the do-it-yourself era, women have learned that it's possible to prepare and serve a company dinner after spending a full day at an office job, with the aid of modern frozen, ready-mixed and prepared packaged foods.

They've found that a compact modern house, complete with the latest gadgets, can be kept spic and span with about 30 minutes work a day, and no outside assistance.

Nowadays we buy our potatoes already peeled, cut up and ready to French fry or hash brown. He can turn out French pastries simply by putting a tray of frozen ones in the oven, or mixing up a package of cream-puff mix.

We can have sauces prepared by famous chefs and serve a meal of specialties from the world's great restaurants, simply by thawing and heating.

The next step in the spare-the-housewife movement, says manufacturer Victor Muscat, is the scheduled appearance on the market next year of all kinds of food in aluminum packages.

"You will be getting all kinds of stuff in aerosol cans," says Muscat — "practically all condiments such as catsup, mustard, mayonnaise and meat sauces, as well as dessert sauces and instant coffee."

"A lot of other foods are going to come in aluminum tubes — meat spreads, butter, jams, jellies, peanut butter and so on."

"Then there will be regular aluminum cans for staple canned foods which can be zipped open by pulling a tab — no can openers needed."

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard goes to the Green Ghouls to get a spool of golden thread for Santa. The Ghouls live in a tree house and has a hundred arms. When Richard snatches the thread from her pocket she crushes him with her arms.

CHAPTER 13
THE BLACK DIAMOND
Richard struggled in the many arms of the Green Ghouls. Using all his strength he twisted back the arms that held him. But it was no use. When he freed himself from two arms a dozen more took their place.

He bent back one, broke another, twisted a third. Still the arms crushed him. It was impossible to escape and all Richard's strength was useless.

Suddenly he got an idea. He thought, "Breaking away from each arm does no good. What I must do is strike at the Ghouls herself. If I conquer her I will, at the same time, conquer the hundred arms."

It was the first time in his life he had ever thought his way out of trouble. He felt happy and unafraid.

He took a big breath and punched his head into the stomach of the Green Ghouls. The mighty blow knocked the breath out of the creature and all arms collapsed.

Richard leaped away. He ran from the house and jumped to the ground. By the time the Ghouls recovered her breath Richard was a mile away. The Green Ghouls let out a roar of anger, a roar so powerful it caused a giant wind to sweep across the whole world.

"You have done a good job," said Santa.

But the wind only helped to carry Richard on his way and the roar didn't frighten him for he was far beyond the reach of the hundred arms.

On and on Richard ran, never tiring, until at last he came to Santa's house.

"I did it!" he cried as he burst through the door. "I brought you the thread!"

He put the spool of golden thread on Santa's desk and then he stood there happier and prouder than he had ever been in his life.

"You have done a good job," said Santa.

"Where is Patrick Tweedle-knees?" asked Richard. "I would like him to know."

"He'll be along presently," said Santa. "In the meantime you come with me."

He took Richard into the kitchen and there on the table were platters of doughnuts and ginger cookies and lemon pie. There was a big white pitcher filled with chocolate milk shake and a blue pitcher filled with cherry pop.

Richard reached for a piece of lemon pie. But at that very moment Patrick Tweedle-knees came into the room.

"I did it!" said Richard. "I brought Santa the golden thread."

"So I heard," snapped Tweedle-knees. "But remember Santa said you must bring him two things and a coward like you will never get the second."

Richard put down the piece of lemon pie. "What is the second thing I must bring?"

"Now," said Santa, "you must bring me a black diamond."

"A-and where will I find such a diamond?"

"From the third finger of the Phantom of the Sea."

"Who is the Phantom of the Sea?" faltered Richard.

"Who knows?" cried Tweedle-knees. "He has never been seen by any living creature. That is why he is called the Phantom."

"Then how do you know there is such a thing?" asked Richard. "And how do you know he wears a black diamond on his finger?"

"People have seen his giant foot prints by the side of the sea. They have heard his screams at night. And though they could not see his hands they could see and feel the black diamond on his finger."

Richard's heart sank and all his old fears came flooding back. He thought he could not bear to meet the Phantom of the Sea.

Spare-the-Housewife Moves Promise Wonderful Future

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor
Life (they keep telling us) is due to grow ever brighter and easier for women in 1958.

And it's true that most of us have changed our housekeeping habits more than we realize with the exit in the last few years of the domestic servant. In the do-it-yourself era, women have learned that it's possible to prepare and serve a company dinner after spending a full day at an office job, with the aid of modern frozen, ready-mixed and prepared packaged foods.

They've found that a compact modern house, complete with the latest gadgets, can be kept spic and span with about 30 minutes work a day, and no outside assistance.

Nowadays we buy our potatoes already peeled, cut up and ready to French fry or hash brown. We can turn out French pastries simply by putting a tray of frozen ones in the oven, or mixing up a package of cream-puff mix.

We can have sauces prepared by famous chefs and serve a meal of specialties from the world's great restaurants, simply by thawing and heating.

The next step in the spare-the-housewife movement, says manufacturer Victor Muscat, is the scheduled appearance on the market next year of all kinds of food in aluminum packages.

"You will be getting all kinds of stuff in aerosol cans," says Muscat — "practically all condiments such as catsup, mustard, mayonnaise and meat sauces, as well as dessert sauces and instant coffee."

"A lot of other foods are going to come in aluminum tubes — meat spreads, butter, jams, jellies, peanut butter and so on."

"Then there will be regular aluminum cans for staple canned foods which can be zipped open by pulling a tab — no can openers needed."

Lions Lose, 56-54, to Indians And Hillsboro Leads in SCO

Playing hard, aggressive ball, but lacking the poise that won them three straight games, the Washington C. H. Lions bowed to Hillsboro, 56-54, in overtime at Hillsboro Tuesday night and, thus, relinquishing the South Central Ohio League lead.

The Indians are top dog today, with a 2-0 league record. Washington C. H. has a 2-1 loop mark that puts the Lions in second, but it may be a long time before they get another chance at the lead.

Fouls cut the Washington C. H. squad to ribbons as the Lions lost Tom Swaim at the beginning of the fourth quarter, Bob Burris at

Circleville Cagers Defeat Groveport

While Hillsboro was taking the South Central Ohio League lead from Washington C. H. Tuesday night, the Circleville Tigers were dropping Groveport, 48-42, for their first victory in three starts—and recouping a little of their basketball prestige.

The much-touted Tigers had lost to Chillicothe and Washington C. H. in successive games before going to Groveport. The win gave them an overall record like that of Washington C. H.—three victories and two defeat.

Bill Johnson, Circleville's bread-and-butter boy all season, led the scoring with 22 points. Tom Moller led Groveport's attack with 20.

Groveport almost pulled the game out from under the Tigers in the fourth quarter when they cut an 11-point Tiger lead down to one time—four.

Circleville gets back into South Central Ohio League play Friday night with a game at Greenfield, while Wilmington tackles Hillsboro and Washington C. H. takes a breather.

Star Gridders Visit Crippled Kiddies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Football players of the East and the West knuckled down to two-day drills today after their inspirational visit to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital here.

"That's the most heart warming thing I've ever seen," declared the East's head coach Rip Engle of Penn State as the husky players mingled with the eager young patients, many of them in casts or traction.

The youngsters, some not yet of kindergarten age, cheered the players as the 33rd annual visit was made to the hospital.

Indians, Giants Set Spring Card

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' spring training schedule against their traditional spring rivals will look about the same next year, except, of course, they will be playing the San Francisco Giants instead of the New York Giants.

The Giants are down for 21 games on the 34-game exhibition schedule—just about the same number as usual. Over the last 25 years, the Indians have won 162 exhibitions from the Giants, lost 152 and tied 6.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State football players set aside their textbooks today for a final practice session before leaving for the west coast.

The Rose Bowl-bound Buckeyes, who play Oregon Jan. 1, have been using their time the last few days to study for exams.

West Virginia Comes Up with New Cage Star

Jerry West Replacing Hot Rod Hundley as Mountaineers' Ace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
If West Virginia's Mountaineers were looking for a college basketball star to replace the graduated Rod Hundley they may have found him in Jerry West. But while Hot Rod left 'em laughing, the scoring soph leaves 'em in a cold sweat.

It was West, tops with 28 points, who hustled West Virginia from behind and slipped through with a layup in the last 3 seconds of overtime for a 76-74 victory over Richmond in a battle of unbeaten Tuesday night.

West Virginia, ranked eighth in the Associated Press poll, now is 6-0 with a weekend date at the Kentucky Invitational Tournament along with top-rated North Carolina, fifth-ranked Kentucky and 10th-ranked Minnesota.

Richmond, which led most of the way, fell to a 5-1 record as the Mountaineers, winning their 26th straight in Southern Conference play, escaped upset on a night of upsets.

South Carolina knocked off Duke 62-51, George Washington, winless in 11 games, whipped Wake Forest 67-45, Penn surprised LaSalle 67-66 in overtime and DePaul put on a late rally for a 60-55 job on Purdue.

Temple, struggling back after defeats by Kentucky and Cincinnati, whipped Texas A&M 60-44. Detroit topped St. Francis (Pa.) from the unbeaten, 79-73, and Bowling Green won an 81-77 overtime victory against Duquesne.

Notre Dame overcame a five-point deficit late in the first half and went on to whip Loyola of Chicago 82-63.

Xavier of Ohio scored seven points in the last minute and 40 seconds to come from behind and beat Fordham 85-82.

Houston defeated North Texas State 76-69 in the Missouri Valley Conference opener for both. Oklahoma took a 43-38 victory over Tulsa. Oklahoma State defeated Oklahoma City 57-50.

Dayton beat a zone and a man-to-man defense in a 58-41 victory over Ohio U. Unbeaten Harvard set a Crimson scoring record with a 102-77 romp against Northeastern. Columbia beat Colgate 68-63.

Pompey Is 8-5 Nod To Defeat Hinnant

CHICAGO (AP)—Yolande Pompey of Trinidad and Clarence Hinnant of Miami, a pair of light heavyweights with plenty of knockout power, meet in a 10 round bout at Chicago Stadium tonight.

Pompey is an 8-5 favorite in the nationally televised scrap.

Ranked the No. 6 contender, Pompey has a record of 23 knockouts while winning 29 of 35.

The Philadelphia, winning his 56th victory against eight losses, softened Peaks with right hooks and worked on his stomach for the first four rounds.

The fifth had barely started when the 29-year-old Johnson jolted Peaks with two lefts to the jaw. He sent blood spurting from Peaks' nose with a hard right cross, following with two hard rights that ended the fight at 2:58.

Time Is Changed For Final Round Of Junior Tourney

The second round of the four-team junior high school basketball tournament will be played Monday afternoon in the Jeffersonville gymnasium.

The two games originally were scheduled to be played Monday night, but the time was changed to afternoon because of a conflict with the big Jeffersonville community Christmas program.

The tourney will bring together the junior cagers from Bloomingburg, Jeffersonville, New Holland and South Solon for the first event of the kind ever held.

First games will be played on the Bloomingburg court Saturday with Bloomingburg and New Holland meeting in the opener at 2 p. m. and Jeffersonville and South Solon taking the floor at about 3 p. m. for the second one.

The losers of the opening round games will meet at 2 p. m. Monday on the Jeffersonville floor and the winners at about 3 p. m. for the championship.

2 More Scrimmages Scheduled for Oregon

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—The University of Oregon football team has only two more practice sessions here before leaving for California to play Ohio State in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

The team, which did not work out today because of final examinations, had a good drill Tuesday. Practice sessions are scheduled for Thursday and Saturday morning. On Saturday afternoon the squad will fly to Los Angeles.

Harvey Haddix Signs Cincinnati Reds Pact

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have come to terms with Harvey Haddix, the pitcher obtained in a trade with Philadelphia's Phils for outfielder Wally Poff, Haddix, of Springfield, Ohio, signed his contract for the 1958 season Tuesday. He had a 10-13 record with the Phils last year.

Jeff Upsets Madison South; Wayne Loses at Frankfort

Jeffersonville went a long way towards refurbishing its damaged self—esteem Tuesday night with a 52-30 win over Madison South, while Good Hope bowed, 91-76, to Frankfort, despite the fact the Mad Antonies hit 35 per cent of 83 shots.

Neither game was a county league contest. Next league games are set for Friday night, when Bloomingburg meets Madison Mills and Wayne tangles with Jeff's Tigers.

Madison South Upset by Jeff

No statistician has yet found a way to include self-esteem in county league records but, if there were, Jeff would be up there today, after their 52-30 win over Madison South.

O'Malley Crew Has Trouble Finding Home

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Will Walter O'Malley and his band of harassed Gypsies find just another heartbreak in their quest for the famed Rose Bowl?

Or will the Pasadena city fathers, as they indicated in Tuesday's episode, roll out the red carpet for O'Malley and his Los Angeles Dodgers?

Is there any chance that O'Malley and the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Commission will work out their problems for that stadium, including the beer concession?

Tune in later for another thrilling chapter in "Just Plain O'Malley"—true life story of a man's search for a diamond surrounded by lots of paying customers."

A ray of hope was shed on the Dodger's search for a place to play when the Pasadena Board of City Directors voted 6-1 to enter into negotiations with the baseball club for use of the Rose Bowl for the 1958-59 season.

After the stormy City Hall session Tuesday, Mayor Seth Miller told the gathering: "We are inviting the Dodgers here if we can get a favorable contract."

The resolution simply instructed City Manager Don McMillan to work out details with O'Malley for use of the 100,000-seat Rose Bowl for 1½ to 2 years.

Baseball Congress Tournays Booked

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Site and starting dates for 32 state tournaments were listed today by the National Baseball Congress for next year's non-pro program.

State winners will compete in the 24th annual national tournament, opening Aug. 15 in Wichita.

Midwest sites and dates are: Elgin, Ill., July 11; Davenport, Iowa, July 11; Wichita, Kan., July 11; Louisville, Ky., July 16; Grand Rapids, Mich., July 18; Piquette, Ohio, July 15; Cleo Springs, Okla., July 25; Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4.

Wayne Loses At Frankfort

Although shooting with style and polish all the way, the Mad Antonies could not master their defense technique at Frankfort Tuesday night, and bowed to the home team, 91-76.

Their 83 shots extended the reputation of the Good Hope boys as one of the fastest-shooting teams in the area, but their 35 per cent was no match for the boys from Ross County.

Frankfort's Simmons, who dumped in 32 points for the winners, took most of his shots from right under the basket, and he gained more than his share of rebounds. Forum, with 21 points, worked from outside, as did Harper, who scored 14.

George Garringer connected for 18 points to lead the losers. He also did duty on the boards after Jay Bonecutter, the first-string center, picked up four fast first-half fouls.

Both squads used zone defenses. Good Hope's reserves led the Frankfort benchers 17-2 at the half and went on to an easy win, 32-22.

Lions Lose, 56-54, to Indians And Hillsboro Leads in SCO

Playing hard, aggressive ball, but lacking the poise that won them three straight games, the Washington C. H. Lions bowed to Hillsboro, 56-54, in overtime at Hillsboro Tuesday night and, thus, relinquishing the South Central Ohio League lead.

The Indians are top dog today, with a 2-0 league record. Washington C. H. has a 2-1 record mark that puts the Lions in second, but it may be a long time before they get another chance at the lead.

Fouls cut the Washington C. H. squad to ribbons as the Lions lost Tom Swaim at the beginning of the fourth quarter, Bob Burris at

Hillsboro Leads SCO Race Now

Circleville Cagers Defeat Groveport

While Hillsboro was taking the South Central Ohio League lead from Washington C. H. Tuesday night, the Circleville Tigers were dropping Groveport, 48-42, for their first victory in three starts—and recouping a little of their basketball prestige.

The much-touted Tigers had lost to Chillicothe and Washington C. H. in successive games before going to Groveport. The win gave them an overall record like that of Washington C. H.—three victories and two defeat.

Bill Johnson, Circleville's bread-and-butter boy all season, led the scoring with 22 points. Tom Moller led Groveport's attack with 20.

Groveport almost pulled the game out from under the Tigers in the fourth quarter when they cut an 11-point Tiger lead down to—

at one time—four.

Circleville gets back into South Central Ohio League play Friday night with a game at Greenfield, while Wilmington tackles Hillsboro and Washington C. H. takes a breather.

Star Gridders Visit Crippled Kiddies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Football players of the East and the West knuckled down to two-day drills today after their inspirational visit to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital here.

"That's the most heart warming thing I've ever seen," declared the East's head coach Rip Engle of Penn State as the husky players mingled with the eager young patients, many of them in casts or traction.

The youngsters, some not yet of kindergarten age, cheered the players as the 33rd annual visit was made to the hospital.

Indians, Giants Set Spring Card

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' spring training schedule against their traditional spring rivals will look about the same next year, except, of course, they will be playing the San Francisco Giants instead of the New York Giants.

The Giants are down for 21 games on the 34-game exhibition schedule—just about the same number as usual. Over the last 25 years, the Indians have won 162 exhibitions from the Giants, lost 152 and tied 6.

Buckeye Footballers

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State football players set aside their textbooks today for a final practice session before leaving for the west coast.

The Rose Bowl-bound Buckeyes, who play Oregon Jan. 1, have been using their time the last few days to study for exams.

West Virginia Comes Up with New Cage Star

Jerry West Replacing Hot Rod Hundley as Mountaineers' Ace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If West Virginia's Mountaineers were looking for a college basketball star to replace the graduated Rod Hundley they may have found him in Jerry West. But while Hot Rod left 'em laughing, the scoring soph leaves 'em in a cold sweat.

It was West, tops with 28 points, who hustled West Virginia from behind and slipped through with a layup in the last 3 seconds of overtime for a 76-74 victory over Richmond in a battle of unbeaten Tuesday night.

West Virginia, ranked eighth in the Associated Press poll, now is 6-0 with a weekend date at the Kentucky Invitational Tournament along with top-rated North Carolina, fifth-ranked Kentucky and 10th-rated Minnesota.

Richmond, which led most of the way, fell to a 5-1 record as the Mountaineers, winning their 26th straight in Southern Conference play, escaped upset on a night of upsets.

South Carolina knocked off Duke 62-51, George Washington, winless in 11 games, whipped Wake Forest 67-45, Penn surprised LaSalle 67-66 in overtime and DePaul put on a late rally for a 60-55 win at Purdue.

Temple, struggling back after defeats by Kentucky and Cincinnati, whipped Texas A&M 60-44. Detroit topped St. Francis (Pa) from the unbeaten, 79-73, and Bowling Green won an 81-77 overtime victory against Duquesne.

Notre Dame overcame a five-point deficit late in the first half and went on to whip Loyola of Chicago 82-63.

Xavier of Ohio scored seven points in the last minute and 40 seconds to come from behind and beat Fordham 85-82.

Houston defeated North Texas State 76-69 in the Missouri Valley Conference opener for both. Oklahoma took a 43-38 victory over Tulsa. Oklahoma State defeated Oklahoma City 57-50.

Dayton beat a zone and a man-to-man defense in a 58-41 victory over Ohio U. Unbeaten Harvard set a Crimson scoring record with a 102-77 romp against Northeastern. Columbia beat Colgate 68-63.

Two Does Bagged By Deer Hunters

Ernest Roush and his son, Lawrence, of New Martinsburg and a Dwayne Roush of South Charleston have returned from a hunting trip in Perry County with two deer.

Ernest Roush got one of them and Dwayne Roush the other.

Both were does and when dressed out each weighed 110 pounds.

Pompey Is 8-5 Nod To Defeat Hinnant

CHICAGO (AP)—Yolande Pompey of Trinidad and Clarence Hinnant of Miami, a pair of light heavyweights with plenty of knockout power, meet in a 10 round bout at Chicago Stadium tonight.

Pompey is an 8-5 favorite in the nationally televised scrap. Ranked the No. 6 contender, Pompey has a record of 23 knockouts while winning 29 of 35.

The Philadelphia, winning his 56th victory against eight losses, softened Peaks with right hooks and worked on his stomach for the first four rounds.

The fifth had barely started when the 29-year-old Johnson jolted Peaks with two lefts to the jaw. He sent blood spurting from Peaks' nose with a hard right cross, following with two hard rights that ended the fight at 2:58.

Jeff Upsets Madison South; Wayne Loses at Frankfort

Jeffersville went a long way towards refurbishing its damaged self - esteem Tuesday night with a 52 - 30 win over Madison South, while Good Hope bowed, 91 - 76, to Frankfort, despite the fact the Mad Anthonies hit 35 per cent of 83 shots.

Neither game was a county league contest. Next league games are set for Friday night, when Bloomington meets Madison Mills and Wayne tangles with Jeff's Tigers.

Madison South Upset by Jeff

No statistician has yet found a way to include self - esteem in county league records but, if there were, Jeff would be up there today, after their 52 - 30 win over Madison South.

O'Malley Crew Has Trouble Finding Home

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Will Walter O'Malley and his band of harassed Gypsies find just another heartbreak in their quest for the famed Rose Bowl?

Or will the Pasadena city fathers, as they indicated in Tuesday's episode, roll out the red carpet for O'Malley and his Los Angeles Dodgers?

Is there any chance that O'Malley and the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Commission will work out their problems for that stadium, including the beer concession?

The second round of the four-team junior high school basketball tournament will be played Monday afternoon in the Jeffersonville gymnasium.

The two games originally were scheduled to be played Monday night, but the time was changed to afternoon because of a conflict with the big Jeffersonville community Christmas program.

The tourney will bring together the junior cagers from Bloomington, Jeffersonville, New Holland and South Solon for the first event of the kind ever held.

First games will be played on the Bloomington court Saturday with Bloomington and New Holland meeting in the opener at 2 p. m. and Jeffersonville and South Solon taking the floor at about 3 p. m. for the second one.

The losers of the opening round games will meet at 2 p. m. Monday on the Jeffersonville floor and the winners at about 3 p. m. for the championship.

2 More Scrimmages Scheduled for Oregon

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—The University of Oregon football team has only two more practice sessions here before leaving for California to play Ohio State in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

The team, which did not work out today because of final examinations, had a good drill Tuesday. Practice sessions are scheduled for Thursday and Saturday morning. On Saturday afternoon the squad will fly to Los Angeles.

Harvey Haddix Signs Cincinnati Reds Pact

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have come to terms with Harvey Haddix, the pitcher obtained in a trade with Philadelphia's Phils for outfielder Wally Post, Haddix, of Springfield, Ohio, signed his contract for the 1958 season Tuesday. He had a 10-13 record with the Phils last year.

Wayne Loses At Frankfort

Although shooting with style and polish all the way, the Mad Anthonies could not master their defense technique at Frankfort Tuesday night, and bowed to the home team, 91 - 76.

Their 83 shots extended the reputation of the Good Hope boys as one of the fastest - shooting teams in the area, but their 35 per cent was no match for the boys from Ross County.

Frankfort's Simmons, who dumped in 32 points for the winners, took most of his shots from right under the basket, and he gained more than his share of rebounds. Forcum, with 21 points, worked from outside, as did Harper, who scored 14.

George Garringer connected for 18 points to lead the losers. He also did duty on the boards after Jay Bonecutter, the first - string center, picked up four fast first fouls.

Both squads used zone defenses. Good Hope's reserves led the Frankfort benchers 17 - 2 at the half and went on to an easy win, 32 - 22.

New Holland News

BY MRS. JAMES DOYLE

NEW HOLLAND — The Golden Rule Sunday School Class of the Methodist Church met at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Glenn Robinson Wednesday evening for the annual Christmas party.

The home was beautifully decorated with seasonal arrangements. Members placed their gifts under the traditional Christmas tree. Small tables covered with Christmas cloths were placed throughout the home for the bountiful 6:30 p. m. covered dish supper. Hostesses for the evening were the 1957 officers, Mrs. Dean Tarbill, president; Mrs. Willard Graves, vice president; Mrs. Bertha Fulton, secretary; Mrs. George Hott, treasurer.

The meeting was brought to order by Mrs. Tarbill. The group sang "Silent Night." Rev. Mr. Robinson conducted devotions, using the Christmas story as his theme.

It was decided by the class to sell personalized pie-crust baskets for a yearly project.

It was also decided to present a Christmas gift to a past teacher, Miss Margaret Haney, who is confined to a nursing home in Chillicothe.

The group will purchase a Christmas basket containing groceries and collect donated clothing for children to a local needy family.

It was also decided to purchase kitchen knives and a sharpener for the church kitchen.

Mrs. Tarbill thanked the class for the fine cooperation shown her during the past year. The new president, Mrs. James Doyle, was introduced to the group. The other officers were announced as follows: Vice president, Mrs. James Shipley; secretary, Mrs. Bertha Fulton; treasurer, Mrs. George Hott.

Mrs. Doyle presented the 1958 programs to each member. It was decided by the group for those wishing to participate, to exchange Secret Sister names and reveal their names at the next Christmas party.

A gift was presented to the class teacher, Mrs. Glenn Robinson, by Mrs. Tarbill in appreciation for her faithful service to the class.

Mrs. Vernon Gifford, Mrs. George Hott and Mrs. Glenn Robinson present the gifts from the gift exchange. Many surprises were enjoyed by all.

Ohio Idle List Tops 100,000

Leveling-Off Signs Seen in BUC Tally

COLUMBUS (AP)—The number of Ohioans collecting jobless benefits has nudged above the 100,000 mark, the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported today. But there were leveling-off signs.

As of last Saturday, the BUC's weekly report shows, the number of claimants unemployed for one week or more was 100,029. That is an increase of 7,337 above the previous week's total of 92,692.

The encouraging signs were in such state centers as Warren and Steubenville where the number of claims for continuing benefits showed slight decreases and in Youngstown, a major steel center, where there was only a slight increase.

One-third of last week's increase in continuing claims was in Cleveland which reported a jump of more than 2,800 to a total of 20,369 now drawing unemployment compensation checks.

BOTH CINCINNATI and the Canton area showed increases of about 600 and Akron's and Dayton's increases were slightly more than 500. Columbus' increase was about 350 and Toledo's slightly slightly more than 100.

The totals of continuing claims dropped, some only slightly, at Coshocton, Defiance, East Liverpool, Fostoria, Hamilton, Ironton, St. Marys, Salem and Springfield.

New claims filed last week numbered 22,894. This would indicate that about 15,000 Ohioans either returned to their old jobs or found new ones during the week.

Lima Farmer Freed By Federal Judge

CLEVELAND (AP)—Federal Judge Paul C. Welch has freed Tommaso Argento, 61-year-old Lima onion farmer, under $25,000 bond and set Dec. 26 for a hearing on a habeas corpus petition.

Argento is fighting extradition to Italy where he was sentenced in absentia to life imprisonment on a charge that he was a member of a gang which committed a murder there 35 years ago.

When the U.S. Supreme Court turned down an appeal from Argento last week, he was rearrested and held for extradition.
